The guide, meant for both women and men, discusses issues such as what someone should do after recovering from a foot injury. It covers ways to maintain healthy tissues and protect the foot from another setback. For example, given that the pain caused by plantar fasciitis is mostly felt in the heel, it is best to look for shoes with dual strength midsoles that prevents that feet from rolling inside the shoe. Flexible toe box shape helps reduce the tension from the plantar fascia during running. Cushion and heel support are also critical.
