Ontario, Canada based ShowerMeister, a company that reviews toilet fixtures and bathroom equipment, is pleased to assist homeowners in finding the best showerheads and filters for their bathrooms. Learn more at the following link: Showermeister Best Shower Filters.

As noted on the company?s website, ShowerMeister specializes in toilet and bathroom equipment that includes shower heads, bathtubs, shower cabins and other toilet accessories. Company representative Mike Chrest says, ?If you?re looking for the best shower equipment for your home, please do not hesitate to connect with ShowerMeister by visiting our website. Our technicians will be more than willing to listen and take a look at your options to help you choose the best shower equipment that suits your lifestyle the most.?

Through a recently published blog post, ShowerMeister shares a number of useful tips on how shoppers can find the best shower filters that remove harmful chemicals in water, such as chlorine. Despite being used as a disinfectant, research shows that chlorine can have serious negative effects on the human body. It is a strong cleaning agent that causes a number of health issues, including skin allergies and dry hair. According to a study by the American Journal of Public Health, chlorine and other cleaning agents even increase the chances of cancer.

Fortunately, ShowerMeister points out that a good shower filter can reduce the risk of allergic reactions and skin disorders by 99%. In addition to removing chlorine and other unwanted contaminants, Chrest states that installing a shower filter provides a number of other benefits. These include softening of hard water, which results in better skin and hair, removal of bad odor from the wate, and even better cost-efficiency due to the fact that such an installation is more affordable compared to getting an in-house water filtration system.

As noted in the article, ShowerMeister asserts that the best shower filters have a two-staged filtration system: one for reducing chlorine and enhancing pH balance and the other for reducing the presence of synthetic chemicals. Another feature to look for when choosing a shower filter is its ability to withstand hot water without affecting the flow rate of the water. The company also states that some shower filters even have antibacterial properties that are suitable for people with very sensitive skin. Furthermore, the likelihood of skin diseases is reduced considerably as a quality shower filter eliminates microbial organisms such as germs, bacteria and other sources of allergens.

?Before setting out to the store to buy a shower filter, you should first consider researching the subject thoroughly. Compare products and look for user reviews. You can even ask around between people you know and trust. Getting the top filtration system might be a hard task for some people as they don?t know what to look for, but you don?t have to worry because our team of experts at ShowerMeister is here to help you,? Chrest says.

ShowerMeister makes finding the best shower filters a much easier endeavor by regularly providing reviews and advice about the latest bathroom products on the market. One of the most highly recommended shower filters includes the Apex Mr-7011 S, a simple yet useful device that is built to remove odor and toxic fumes from water. Another shower filter that received a high recommendation from ShowMeister is the HO2 WH M from Sprite, a reputable and established manufacturer that has years of experience in the bathroom industry. Ultimately, ShowerMeister?s number one recommendation is the Aquabliss?no matter where one lives and how dirty the water is, the company affirms that the Aquabliss can purify the water and remove chlorine, metals, pesticides, fungi and all kinds of bacteria to a satisfactory degree.

More information can be found on the company?s website where they review the latest toilet fixtures and bathroom equipment on the market.
