Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling, based in Tucson, Arizona, has announced that they are open and continue to offer plumbing services in Tucson and neighboring areas. Nevertheless, they want to emphasize that Spartan Plumbing is open and taking precautions to keep the community safe during the COVID-19 crisis to help protect both customers and the team's employees. The company's plumbing and air conditioning technicians wear gloves on most of the calls, and in many cases, the team is also wearing masks. They also practice social distancing and make sure to keep a distance from each other and customers as much as possible.

Mike Gesty, General Owners of Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling, says, "The safety of our technicians and customers is our first priority, so you can feel confident calling our team for help. Coronavirus is a disease that the CDC (Centers for Disease Control) warns can cause respiratory illness. It is spread from person to person and is highly contagious. Experts recommend practicing distancing by staying at least 6-feet away from other individuals when you must go out in public places. This can help lessen the spread of the disease and minimize the number of people infected overall."

He continues, "It's also important to avoid shaking hands, hugging, or otherwise touching others. Although extreme, doing this can save lives by minimizing the number of individuals who are impacted by this disease. We understand that our customers in Tucson, AZ are still in need of quality plumbing and HVAC services. That's why we have enhanced our already rigorous safety standards and are regularly monitoring CDC recommendations for other protocols we may need to implement."

These include commercial plumbing; clogged toilet repairs; drain cleaning; boiler repair; bathroom remodeling; burst pipe repair; 24 hour emergency services; sewer line repairs; backflow testing and certification; Perma Liner installation; new construction plumbing; repiping; gas line services; garbage disposals; hydro jetting; water softeners; water leak detection; faucets, fixtures, and sinks; water filtration systems trenchless sewer repair; tankless water heaters; water heaters; slab leak repairs; sewer smoke testing; sump pumps; and more.

Spartan Plumbing is a licensed, bonded and insured plumbing company serving Arizona. All technicians are required by the company to obtain the appropriate licensing and certifications for both residential and commercial plumbing services. These plumbers can provide free estimates to homeowners and commercial property owners.

In addition to plumbing services, Spartan Plumbing, Heating & Cooling can also offer help in regard to air conditioning repair, maintenance, and installation. The company has been providing heating and cooling needs of residents in the Tucson area for more than three decades. Their HVAC experts have the ability to offer assistance regarding any issue with the air conditioner for both residential and commercial establishments. With the summer season fast approaching, homeowners and other property owners may want to ensure that their air conditioners are functioning properly. They can offer air conditioner tune-ups or repair. Advantages of an air conditioner tune up include ensuring the that the unit will be running smoothly, prevention of repair, finding out if there any safety hazards, and detection of any potential issues.
