Los Gatos, CA The Painting Pros is pleased to inform the communities they serve that their Exterior Painting services will continue to be available over the coming months. Despite the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and the associated Shelter-In-Place (SIP) protocols that are being enforced in response, the company assures their customers that their homes? and businesses? exteriors need not go untended during this period. Furthermore, the company?s employees are taking every possible measure to ensure the safety of all parties involved.

?With all the concern lately concerning the COVID-19 pandemic, we would like to assure people that The Painting Pros take their concerns seriously,? states the company. ?Exterior Painting is important, and it affects more than just the aesthetic appeal of your property. It is also a protective coating that?s specifically designed to prevent weathering and rotting. Delaying your property?s exterior painting, even during these times, could lead to more expenses down the road.?

They continue, ?We can paint the outside of your house with no personal contact. We can provide the estimate, do the work and request payment without personal contact. You can also get a remote quote using Facetime or Zoom.? The Painting Pros observes that modern technology allows homeowners and businesses alike to remove personal interaction from the process entirely, and the company will be making use of every option at their disposal to maintain smooth delivery of service at every stage. While the face-to-face nature of their operations will no longer take place, the company asserts that customers may continue to access their services with minimal disruption.

This is due to the fact that the company has over four decades of experience in the field, a period over which they have honed their skills in customer service alongside their technical skills in the industry. Their employees are more than capable of accommodating a wide variety of requests from their customers without compromising the quality of the service they offer, and this in turn makes them quite capable of approaching the COVID-19 pandemic and the emergency measures being taken with the same efficiency. No matter the situation at hand, they bring exceptional results, precise craftsmanship and prompt, respectful service to every project they take on.

Furthermore, the company advises homeowners and other individuals against attempting to carry out a painting project by themselves. While the pandemic has forced many businesses to have their employees stay home, this newfound free time may not be best spent taking on a difficult (and possibly dangerous) painting project. As the company points out, successfully completely such a task may save the individual in question some money in the short term, but their inexperience will likely lead to more costly problems in the future. Furthermore, they may also not have access to the right materials and tools as a professional service would.

The Painting Pros, for instance, brings a wealth of expertise to every project that is supported by their use of only the highest quality primers and paints. Additionally, they protect each customer?s possessions while they are on site, and they make it a priority to clean up after themselves once a painting project is complete. The company does not believe that their work is done until their customer?s property is completely cleaned before they leave.

This attention to detail and their willingness to accommodate unique requests is appreciated by their customers, many of whom have left positive feedback online. For instance, Ben Fowler says in their Google review that, ?I hired The Painting Pros to paint the interior of my home and they did a fantastic job. I found great value in their color specialist, who came by to help us determine the best color scheme for the house as well as the correct finish for various rooms.?

The review continues, ?As a roofing contractor, I have seen my fair share of horrendous paint jobs out there, so I was cautious with who I hired and couldn't be happier that I went with these guys. You really get what you pay for, and their service and workmanship is worth every penny. I now exclusively recommend The Painting Pros to all of my own customers who are looking for painting work.?
