

American Quality Management Recertifies for ISO 9001

April 24, 2020

April 24, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

American Quality Management, a consulting firm based in Montebello, California, has announced with pride that they have been recertified for ISO 9001:2015. The company is a consulting and auditing firm that specializes in providing assistance to companies of any size in establishing world class quality management system that comply with international quality standards, such as ISO 9001, AS9100, and ISO 14001. With their recertification, they will be able to continue offering help to their clients in undergoing an audit and receiving an ISO 9001 certification confirming their company's management systems registration.

Connie Smith, a representative for American Quality Management, says, "This certification accomplishment positions you among the best in your industry for fulfilling the ISO requirements. This certificate also represents a major investment for your organization; tremendous resources have been dedicated toward this effort, so we encourage you to maximize and leverage the accomplishment."

According to Connie Smith, there are a number of ways that their clients can leverage their certification. First of all, a certified company can notify its suppliers and customers and encourage them to update their systems with their present certification information. It is to the advantage of the company that all parties that are part of their value chain are notified about this certification accomplishment.

The company may also want to issue a press release to share this particular accomplishment with all employees, customers, suppliers, and prospects. This PR can be posted on the company website and distributed to media outlets who are associated with the company's particular industry.

The company of quality management consultants also suggests that client companies with this certification to proudly disseminate information regarding the certification accomplishment throughout the organization and even beyond. This can be through the company's employee communications system, its website, and marketing. The client company may also want to buy some banners, flags, and marketing merchandise that show the NSF logo and the company's specific ISO certification in the client company's facility.

American Quality Management offers ISO 9001 certification services for companies that don't have their own staff for handling the ISO certification process. There are a number of advantages that client companies can enjoy as a result of the ISO 9001 certification. These include: improved customer satisfaction because of the higher quality of products and services; establishment of a food reputation that stands for quality, thus boosting the company's competitive edge; enhanced efficiency of their everyday operations; lower costs in relation to product returns because of defective products; increase in market share and brand equity; continual productivity improvements; decrease in the need for time-consuming customer audits; enhanced customer trust; optimization of internal communication and processes; and improved accountability standards for all management levels.

The ISO 9001:2015 is a globally recognized quality management standard that has already been implemented in more than 200 countries around the world. It has been accepted as a standard set of rules for managing quality in different kinds of people, languages, and cultures. It has evolved into the most proven quality management standard as a result of its successful implementation that has resulted in improvements in quality, employee efficiency, and a substantial reduction in expensive wastes. This is particularly beneficial for those who are in industries where the profit margins are relatively small.

American Quality Management experts are on hand to use their ISO 9001 expertise to assist client companies who either want to establish an ISO 9001 system for the first time or simply improve on their current quality management system. They also have a lot of experience with regards to the lean six sigma quality system. However, they realize that each business is unique and therefore make sure that the quality management system developed for each particular client company is 100 percent custom-fitted to their unique requirements.

People who need more information about the ISO 9001 consulting services provided by American Quality Management, including other services, may want to check out their website, or contact them on the phone or through email.

###

For more information about American Quality Management, contact the company here: American Quality Management Connie Smith (323) 896-1803 info@aqmauditing.com 1000 Torino Montebello, CA 90640

American Quality Management

American Quality Management is a California based consulting firm dedicated to assisting clients throughout the United States with transitioning into the latest AS9100, ISO 9001, and ISO 14001 standards.

Website: <https://aqmauditing.com>

Email: info@aqmauditing.com

Phone: (323) 896-1803

