Battle Born Painting has announced that they will still be out working during the current virus crisis. In lieu of this, they will now only be doing exterior painting and other outdoor home improvement projects. They have also implemented New Safety Procedures that are designed to keep their customers and employees safe and healthy.

Company owner, Will Reyes, had this to say on the matter, "This certainly is an unusual, scary, and stressful time in our country for businesses and homeowners alike. It also goes without saying that not everything can just stop altogether such as critical home improvement services such as exterior painting. We also recognize how dependent our employees are on the income that our work provides for them. That's why we have decided to continue working through the current virus crisis that's sweeping the nation. Although it will be anything but business as usual and a high emphasis will be placed on customer and employee safety, we will still be providing all of our reputable painting and other exterior services."

Reyes went on to add that they wanted to reach out to the community and reassure them that they are doing everything they can to minimize interaction between employees and customers while on the job. This includes virtually discussing inspections and estimates and taking payments without any face to face contact. He says that their painting techs can also do their work without ever having to enter a customer's premises at any time. The company owner has also given his employees strict stay at home orders if any of them experience even the slightest signs of flu-like symptoms. He says that he and his crews will miss the typical friendly and helpful interactions with their customers but this has to be done in the interest of safety during this unusual time.

The company owner also encouraged business and residential customers not to postpone their exterior painting projects at this time. He says this is not only because of the safety practices they have implemented but also because home and business exteriors can rapidly deteriorate if they do not get the prep work and vital coats of paint that they need. Reyes also reminded that the area will soon get back on its feet and home and business owners will want their properties looking good. He also added that no corners will be cut by their exterior painting crews that are continuing to work through this crisis. The company owner says that each painting customer can expect to get the quality workmanship and great customer service that his company has always been known for.

Reyes went on to say that there is no exterior painting job that is too big, too small or too complicated for them to take on. He says that he fully realizes that painting is an art and that's why he only hires the best in the business to come work for him. Reyes also emphasized that they only use top-of-the-line supplies, including high-quality paints that are applied with state-of-the-art tools. He added that they always strive to complete their projects in a very timely manner too. That type of commitment has led to reviews such as this one taken from the company's Google Maps business listing. In this 5 out of 5-star review, Adil Adam Harchaoui says, "Amazing service and amazing crew. Clean, professional, quick turn around and great pricing. I Highly recommended them."

Battle Born Painting caters to the painting needs of both commercial and residential customers. Among the other exterior home improvement services that they offer besides exterior painting include concrete staining and painting, fence and deck staining, and stucco painting. For those seeking more information on this company's exterior painting services, the owner says that they can contact him by phone, email or by filling out the "request a quote" form on their website. Battle Born Painting provides its wide selection of exterior painting and other painting services to those in Reno, Carson City, Sparks, Sun Valley, and elsewhere throughout the Northern Nevada area.
