April 16, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Philadelphia, PA ? At Schuster Law, the Philadelphia work injury lawyers are holding their next legal webinar on the types of compensation available for workplace injury claims.

Ken Schuster, the managing attorney at Schuster Law, shares, ?On April 15, 2020, at 9:30 pm, our legal team plans on discussing some potential legal options available to work injury victims. We understand the workers? compensation process can be complex; therefore, we hope this webinar helps to answer any questions individuals may have if they were involved in a workplace accident.?

With over 30 years of experience, the work injury attorneys in Philadelphia have represented thousands of clients in several regions of Pennsylvania. Other areas of practice the legal team handles are slip and falls, auto crashes, medical malpractices, and nursing home abuse cases.

?Work injury victims often don?t realize the types of reimbursement they could possibly collect after a work-related accident or illness takes place. With knowledge and passion from our legal team, we can fight for maximum compensation to cover the financial burden unexpected expenses entail. Our goal is for victims to focus on the healing process while our firm works hard to get what you deserve," states Mr. Schuster.

Aside from workers' comp claims, Schuster Law's legal team also works with various types of cases handling family law, construction accidents, maritime accidents, and premise liability cases.
