Furnace Repair Markham, based in Markham, Ontario, Canada, has announced that they have partnered with Martino HVAC to offer full service heating services in Markham and neighbouring areas. Furnace Repair Markham has been a provider of furnace repair services in Markham since 2011, establishing a reputation of being one of the leading heating and cooling companies. One indication of their topnotch service is the A+ rating provided by the Better Business Bureau for the company throughout all those years that they have been in operation.

Meanwhile, Martino Heating & Air Conditioning has been providing design, installation and repair services for home comfort systems in the Greater Toronto Area and Quinte Regions for the past 30 years. With this partnership, both companies expect to better serve homeowners and other property owners in Markham and surrounding areas.

Gene Gary, a spokesperson for Furnace Repair Markham, says, "We always strive to deliver top-notch quality and excellent workmanship at reasonable prices. Our secret is that we always take care in hiring the best people possible. Furthermore, we invest in training and customer service, in order to provide you with the best support and assistance you can possibly get. Over all these years we've shaped our own quality assurance program so that we can offer you 100% customer satisfaction. Our latest partnership deal with Martino HVAC is another step in that direction. You can expect fast and timely 24-hours service, all year round from us.?

Furnace Repair Markham is a trusted furnace repair company and HVAC contractor that ensures that homes and other buildings have a highly efficient furnace to ensure that the interior is comfortable during the cold months. They recommend preventive maintenance to extend the lifespan of the heating system and to minimize the possibility of the system breaking down suddenly.

There are a number of factors that make Furnace Repair Markham stand out among the crowd of HVAC companies in the area. These include: excellent discounts, warranties and financing opportunities; fast and timely 24-hour service that is available all year round; and certified, trained, and experienced HVAC technicians.

Furnace Repair Markham also offers furnace installation services because it is inevitable that at some point in time, a homeowner or property owner will need to have the furnace replaced. This is because an old and poorly performing furnace will not just provide inadequate and unreliable warmth, it may also mean higher energy bills because of the highly reduced efficiency of the furnace. The company can offer homeowners peace of mind by conducting an inspection of the furnace to determine if what is needed is just a cleaning of the vents and other parts of the heating system. Or it may be that there is just a need to change the air filters.

However, they would like to point out that a furnace is expected to last for approximately 10 to 15 years. Being knowledgeable regarding the expected lifespan of a particular furnace is essential. Homeowners may want to consult with various HVAC experts if they are in doubt as to whether to proceed with the purchase of a brand new furnace or not. It may also be a good idea to ask the contractor if they can safely do anything in advance that will reduce the cost of the actual labour of furnace installation. It will all depend on the specific features of the old and brand new furnace.

According to Gene Gary, it may be a good idea to prepare the home for the arrival of the hired contractor. Perhaps, this may mean repositioning the furniture from the front door up to the utility room and to clean the area to facilitate ease of mobility and installation. It may also be a good idea to put some plastic sheet on the floor or clear the yard so that the contractor may be able to park in such a way that they will have a more direct access to the home.
