June 09, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Modiin, Israel based Flaskdata.io is reaching out to the community to share one of their most recent customer case studies, as described by Vibrant Gastro Ltd. The company hopes that this case study will inspire other organizations and businesses to consider what they can achieve with Flaskdata.io's assistance.

Flaskdata.io is one of the most prestigious tech-startup companies in the world. They boast a long history of helping their clients through some of the most critical phases of clinical trials, providing a platform that allows them to speed up trials anywhere between 3-6 months without compromising results. This tool can mean the difference between meeting a product's launch schedule or delaying it further, thereby increasing its cost.

Vibrant Gastro is one of the many leading innovative life science companies that makes use of Flaskdata.io's platform in order to manage their global clinical data trials more effectively, taking full advantage of the utilities that it brings to the thriving company and their operations. Vibrant is mostly known for the development and production of chemical-free vibrating capsules that are used to treat constipation. They have developed Medtech, treatment and patient monitoring platforms for various constipated patients, all of which rely on known physiological parameters of large intestine peristaltic movement to function.

With Flaskdata.io's assistance during phase two and three clinical trials, Vibrant seeks to launch a proprietary, biocompatible and chemical-free capsule that provides effective aid for patients suffering from chronic constipation. So far, they have completed the phase 2 clinical trial with a positive signal of efficacy. They have also completed recruitment for phase three, sham double-blind study with 150 patients in the USA and Israel. Representatives of the company have expressed their eagerness to continue moving forward with the project, stating that Flaskdata.io's assistance was key to the success they have achieved up to this point.

Camille Morliere, VP Clinical of Vibrant Gastro, states, "It was a pleasure to work with Flaskdata.io. The flexibility of their platform combines EDC and electronic patient report outcomes with real-time protocol monitoring. The delivery of an integrated digital clinical trial management system developed for our unique usage is especially appreciated. The system is intuitive and easy to use, while providing a wide range of services."

The Flaskdata.io platform supports real-time data collection as well as automated detection and response, all available to their clients at a moment's notice. This data is collected from any combination of sources, including investigators, patients, mobile, wearables, passive monitoring, connected medical devices and code. Since it features an open API architecture, it fits easily into any piece of digital health, digital therapeutics or eClinical software.

In addition to the technical aspects of their platform, Morliere expressed gratitude for the attention they were paid by Flaskdata.io. They state, "During the development phase, the team made itself extremely available and managed to resolve all issues in a timely manner. They always rose up to the challenge with a positive attitude. We found the team to be reliable, and we are looking forward to continuing our partnership with Flaskdata.io."

Flaskdata.io takes great pride in their standards of customer service. They believe that forming a fully cooperative partnership with each of their clients is at least as vital as the technology they produce, especially given that such partnerships are often key to pushing an industry forward. They aim to help their clients reach their goals, as any setbacks that crop up during these phases can result in significant delays and increased costs that could put a project at risk.

A representative of the company says, "What makes FlaskData different from its peers is the people. We have personnel listening to you and helping you achieve prompt results in your studies by eliminating avoidable rework. We are fully prepared to guide and assist our clients through the entirety of the process, making sure to optimize and oversee even the smallest details to ensure that everything goes according to plan. We have gone through this many times and are familiar with the best ways to rapidly deliver reliable results. With us, our clients always have the reassurance of knowing that they can request a professional's assistance and guidance at a moment's notice, and that is what makes us the better option."
