April 24, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A local pest control company is offering bed bug removal services to homes and businesses throughout the Orange, CA area. Quality Orange Pest Control says that instances of bed bugs in the local area have been increasing slowly but steadily.

"Battling these particular bugs is a hard task for any professional or even any individual. They're exasperating pest when dealing with an infestation and that's why we always stress the importance of being aware and contacting a professional when the need arises. You never want to wait even a day when it comes to bed bugs," the business manager said.

The business owner said that it is best when the public is educated because then they know what to look out for. It's especially helpful to people that travel frequently or visit public places often. For anyone that watches the news, it should be understood that bed bugs can be found just about anywhere. Contacting a pest control company in Orange CA is highly recommended.

"You don't even need to travel often to end up with a bed bug issue. The unfortunate part is that you likely unknowingly gave the bed bugs a ride to your place from wherever you picked them up. There's a reason they have the nickname "hitch hikers" because that's how they get around. Whether hitching a ride on a person or an object or even inside luggage or a vehicle. Nobody is safe from potential bed bug issues," the manager said. Contacting a pest control company in Orange CA is highly recommended.

Bed bugs can be the size of an apple seed so they're harder to spot unless inspecting very closely. The company said that they recommend Orange residents check their mattress and bedding regularly if they travel often. Bed bugs will first invade a bed, but they can also infest other furniture and linens.

These little pests will feed on people while they sleep. There is a numbing agent in their saliva that makes it easier for them to feed without being noticed. When inspecting for bed bugs it's best to do it at night with a flashlight since they are more active at night.

When asked how an inspection should be handled the company answered, ?You can definitely do your own inspection, however an inspection is often mandatory when it comes to bed bugs. This is how we are able to confirm that bed bugs are present, and then assess the level of infestation so we can recommend the best course of action to start treating the bugs.?
