April 29, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The hair replacement service is still serving the needs of those who suffer from hair loss.

Vista, CA- Invisible Hair, a Southern California hair replacement company, is still serving the needs of its clients during the shutdown due to COVID-19. When California's Executive Order took place on March 19, 2020, Invisible Hair temporarily closed down their Vista salon. Owner Dawn Harrison continues to help clients by keeping her phone line open and offering discounts to her clients.

Hair loss is not just a post-menopausal problem?clients of Invisible Hair age range from their teens up. About 40% of women experience hair loss at some time in their lives. 33% experience it due to medical-related causes such as cancer or alopecia. Harrison has been specializing in the hair enhancement industry since 1986. Having a flourishing hair extension business already, some of her clients were aging or had medical conditions. Hair extensions were not the solution when all the hair falls out. Harrison invented and patented the Invisible Hair nonsurgical hair graft technology when she found the lack of available options for women.

Invisible Hair uses medical grade materials or premium human hair. The grafted hair enhancements are attached to the skin between one's hair. The existing or growing hair is left alone, creating thicker hair that can be parted or brushed in any direction. It can be worn straight, used with irons, and washed and styled to the client's preference. For significant hair loss, Invisible Hair also provides wigs.

"I believe any woman looking to rediscover themselves after the mental anguish that comes from hair loss can find a solution at Invisible Hair," says Dawn Harrison, owner, educator consultant, and designer of women's hair extensions. "There's no reason to suffer from the condition before doing something about it."

Invisible Hair is offering deep discounts during this time. Medical discounts and financing are also available. Invisible Hair serves clients all over Southern California, San Diego County, and Orange County. Dawn Harrison is available for phone and video consultations while the salon is under mandatory closure.
