Air Conditioning Repair Toronto has announced that they have recently partnered with Martino HVAC in order to provide full HVAC services in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). Air Conditioning Repair Toronto has been serving homeowners in the area since 2011 and are nationally renowned as one of the most knowledgeable and experienced HVAC contractors, having managed to maintain their A+ rating with the Better Business Bureau (BBB).

Meanwhile, Martino HVAC has been providing the design, installation, and repair of HVAC systems in the GTA and Quinte Regions since 1987. They are a family owned and operated business and they ensure that all of their technicians have undergone a thorough background check and are fully licensed. They are also a Goodman Premier dealer, Heat n Glo Platinum dealer, and Daikin Comfort Pro licensed dealer.

Gerald C. Nagata, a spokesperson for Air Conditioning Repair Toronto, says, ?Our recent formation of a partnership with Martino HVAC is in line with our commitment to continue providing the best possible air conditioning services in the Greater Toronto Area. Martino HVAC has been providing quality HVAC services for more than 30 years and we know that they can really help homeowners in GTA when there is a need for a reliable air conditioning technician. Our partnership ensures homeowners in GTA that they will get the services of a dependable HVAC contractor when they need it.?

Gerald C. Nagata points out that having an air conditioning system that is working properly during the summer months is essential. Thus, it is advisable to have the air conditioner checked regularly so that any issues may be resolved. Meanwhile, air conditioning repair is common for those units that are less than 10 years old. Because they are relatively new, getting the necessary parts when repairing them would be quite easy. Also, the AC technician will be more familiar with the technology that is currently installed. Thus, repairing the unit may be less expensive compared to replacing it. Air Conditioning Repair Toronto suggests multiplying the age of the AC unit by the cost of the repair to find out if it is better to have it replaced it rather than having it repaired. They recommend replacing the unit if the total amount calculated is more than $5,000.

Also, if the unit still uses chlorofluorocarbon as refrigerant, it is advisable to have it replaced because that kind of refrigerant is harmful to the environment. In general, air conditioning units that were manufactured after 2010 use a type of refrigerant that is not harmful to the ozone layer, which means that units made in 2010 or older should be replaced.

It should also be noted that older AC units are not as energy efficient as the modern units and may use up to 30 percent more electricity. Thus, for these units, even if the amount resulting from multiplying the age of unit by the repair cost is less than $5,000, it may still be a good idea to have the system replaced if it is at least 8 years old because of the lower efficiency, which means higher electric bills. To ensure that they are making the right decision, it may be best to consult with the contractor because he or she can evaluate the condition of the unit and make an estimate of the cost of repair, how long the fix will last, and whether it may be more cost effective to simply replace the unit.

Homeowners may also find it helpful to find good HVAC contractors before the AC unit actually breaks down. This is advisable because some AC repair companies may take advantage of the urgent need for the repair service and charge higher rates. Meanwhile, with Air Conditioning Repair Toronto, homeowners could rest assured that they will get quality repair services at reasonable prices.

Homeowners who are looking for a quality AC repair company may want to check out the Air Conditioning Repair Toronto website, or contact them through the telephone. They are open 24 hours a day, from Monday to Sunday.
