Clean Group Now Taking Strata Cleaning to a Whole New Level

May 11, 2020 -
The Clean Group has just announced that they are now taking strata cleaning to a whole new level. They realize that more than ever people in urban communities are choosing to live in multi-unit dwellings that offer more than just a place to eat and sleep. Strata dwellings such as Condos are filled with common areas that are widely used by everyone within the building. The current coronavirus crisis has made the importance of properly cleaning and sanitizing these common areas more important than ever. The Clean Group says that it?s up to the challenge of cleaning common use areas to the strict standards that they now require.

Owner of The Clean Group, Suji Siv, had this to say about the added importance now to getting professional strata cleaning done, ?It sure is some strange and scary times we are living in now. The current virus crisis has brought some cleaning concerns to the forefront that in reality have always been there. One of them is the need to keep the common areas in a strata dwelling building extremely clean. Many times, this means that extreme cleaning measures need to be taken in these areas to keep people safe and that?s where professional cleaning companies like ours come into play. We at the Clean Group have the experience and equipment to take the cleanliness of common areas in a multi-unit dwelling to a much higher level than in-house cleaning personal can ordinarily do.?

Siv went on to say that doing strata cleaning work is nothing new to his company. He says his company has actually been doing this very thing for over 20 years now. That makes them one of the most experienced strata cleaning Sydney companies. The company owner says this type of experience that his cleaning crews bring to strata cleaning projects is super valuable because they know exactly what it takes to keep the common areas in a strata community extremely clean and sanitary. He added that his strata cleaning crews are always led by some of the most experienced multi-dwelling common cleaners that can be found in Sydney.

The company owner stated that some people may be surprised by the number of common areas that are found in condos and other strata type living communities. He says that they will get together with the building owner or managers and work out a plan that is specifically tailored to that building's common area cleaning needs. Siv says that these initial strata cleaning consultations are completely free of charge and at the same time he will give the owner or building manager an estimate as to what their building?s tailored strata cleaning plan will cost.

Siv went on to say that one of the main reasons that those who run strata multi-dwelling units should consider hiring professionals to clean their building?s common areas is because how thoroughly everything will be cleaned. He says that his company?s strata cleaning services go well beyond just sweeping and mopping floors and using disinfectant cleaner to wipe down obvious surfaces such as tables and chairs. He says their strata cleaning services are so detailed that they clean light switches, electrical outlet coverings, elevator buttons, rubbish containers, and even safety handrails. He wanted to remind people that his company also only uses safe and eco-friendly chemicals when cleaning and building common areas. Some of the different types of common areas that are sanitized when they provide professional strata cleaning include elevators, hallways, lobbies, lounging areas, pool areas, and stairways.

The Clean Group has received many accolades for the thorough way they conduct their strata cleaning services. Here is one from an actual Strata Building Committee that says, ?These guys are great. We are extremely satisfied with the services they deliver, so do our tenants. Great attention to detail and we have not received any complaints regarding cleaning concerns. Friendly, approachable staff, and definitely reliable.?

For those that would like more information on these reliable strata cleaners, the owner invites property managers and owners to call him, send him an email, or contact him by using the form on the company?s website.
