

Restoration Logistics Dispels Myths about Basement Flood Clean Up in Westminster ? Why Experience Matters

May 01, 2020

May 01, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Restoration Logistics today reflected on its expertise of Emergency Flood Clean Up services in Westminster for over 30 years, which has been based on actual experience and not theory. The main aim was always to give customers peace of mind during a disastrous situation. And doing it quicker with less disruption to their lives... and by defying convention, this 24 Hours Emergency Services did so, with a difference that is hyper-focused on customer satisfaction.

Dan Travers, Emergency Services Director at Restoration Logistics, says: "We wanted to try something new with Emergency Flood Clean Up. Anyone familiar with the Emergency Water Damage Clean Up and Basement Flooding market will probably have noticed how everyone else always seemed to make wild claims about their experience or training ? overstating that they have 50 years of experience, when, in fact, they really only have 25 people who have been there for 2 years. We felt this was a problem because inexperience causes more headaches that customers don't deserve. Our average employee has been with our company for 19.75 years demonstrating strong experience and job satisfaction in working for us."

So as a welcome breathe of fresh air, their Emergency flood clean up services instead gives customers quicker resolution times and focused on being attentive to their customers. Restoration Logistics chose to make this move because our experience means great service for our customers, which gives them confidence as they go through a stressful and difficult situation.

Dan Travers also said, "We want to give our customers peace of mind they have chosen the correct company to help through a difficult situation in their lives. With our company, they have a fresh new possibility. We want them to feel taken care of, safe and satisfied when using Emergency Flood Clean Up Westminster ? we're committed to this community. Knowing a company has your back, like Restoration Logistics, can help as you get your home back to normal."
