As noted on the law firm?s website, DUI cases are rather commonplace for a variety of reasons. One reason is that certain prescription and over-the-counter drugs can put drivers at risk of getting a drug impaired driving charge, and many are unaware of this fact. Some of these drugs, although legally acquired, can still be used as evidence for DUI cases since they have warnings stating that individuals who take them should not drive vehicles. The firm also explains that refusing to take the breathalyzer test is itself a chargeable offense. In addition to an impaired driving charge, the person will also face charges for their failure to provide a breath sample. This will lead to further offenses and graver punishments.

Meanwhile, a spokesperson from Los Angeles DUI Lawyer warns the motoring public that DUI cases may result in severe consequences, such as loss of income, travel restrictions, fines and the suspension of one?s

driver license. It may also lead to more severe punishment, including a criminal record and having to serve a jail sentence. Due to this, the firm asserts that DUI cases should be taken seriously and resolved as quickly as possible.

?Given the gravity of this kind of case, drivers may feel overwhelmed and helpless. However, although DUI cases are serious, drivers can still win such cases. Winning a DUI case is possible as long as the driver immediately requests help from a lawyer with experience in defending and winning DUI cases,? the firm?s spokesperson says. Additionally, they assert that there are several ways that a reliable Los Angeles DUI Attorney? can prepare an outstanding defense for drivers with DUI cases.

One way is to establish and prove to the court that the arresting officer did not comply with the California?s Title 17 Regulations before conducting blood and breath tests. As per the state?s Title 17 Regulations, the arresting officer has to follow a standard operating procedure before taking a blood and breath sample. Another way is to prove to the court that the police officer failed to read a driver their Miranda Rights. Moreover, the attorney can establish that the blood alcohol content (BAC) of the driver was on the rise while being pulled over. Consuming alcohol usually rises to a peak level in one?s blood after 2-3 hours. The firm?s spokesperson points out that this is a great defense?but it has to be proven by a competent lawyer.
