Georgetown, Delaware Workers' Comp Lawyers Tus Abogados Locales Announce Latest Webinar

May 11, 2020

May 11, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Georgetown, DE - The workers' comp attorneys in Georgetown who belong to the Tus Abogados Locales legal network have recently released the date and time for their latest online webinar. The managing partner of the firm, Laurence P. Banville, shared some additional comments:

"No one ever thinks they're going to suffer a work-related injury, but the numbers tell us that they are occurring at an alarming rate. For this reason, on Monday, May 11th, we will be holding a virtual informational session at 8:30 PM. In this webinar, we will be reviewing the basics of injuries in the workplace. Indeed, most people think it's as easy as going to their boss with the issue and filing a couple of forms, but actually receiving the compensation one deserves can be a complex process. We will cover these intricacies as well as hold an open question & answer component for audience members who may have any questions."

The Tus Abogados Locales personal injury law firm in Georgetown has previously represented clients who suffered personal injuries in car accidents and trips and falls, as well as cases related to medical negligence and doctor malpractice. This is in addition to their experience with workers' compensation claims and disability benefits.

"The worker's comp system was set up to make the lives of injured workers easier. It was also intended to save the business owner time, as long as they provide insurance for their workers. Nevertheless, when victims face the system without professional assistance, they have a lesser chance to receive their maximum compensation. By providing valuable information to the community in any way we can, such as with this webinar, we hope to arm victims with the knowledge they need to fight for what they deserve," concluded Banville.

The Georgetown legal team also made it clear that, while in most instances it is not possible to sue your employer for an injury, there are some specific cases in which this option is viable. Persons considering such legal recourses should consider discussing their circumstances with an experienced attorney.
