

ACP Painting Launches New Website

May 15, 2020

May 15, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Maricopa, AZ based ACP Painting, LLC is pleased to announce that they have launched a new website. They invite their customers, both new and existing alike, to visit this online space in order to discover everything the company has to offer. Find the website and explore the company's services, history and more at the following link: <https://acppaintingllc.com/>.

According to ACP Painting, the company's leadership team was aware of the need to offer their customers an improved and modern platform that would better showcase both the company's aims as well as the services they offered. Today, given the circumstances surrounding the COVID-19 pandemic and rising demand from customers for businesses that can communicate with them online, the company believes that the recent launch of their updated website is especially timely and fortunate.

"Our online presence used to be something of an afterthought," the company says, "since we were able to resonate and interact with our customers on a personal level. However, as the years passed and we began to branch out, it became quite clear that it was time for us to join the digital age and begin reaching out to customers through a brand new avenue. While we could not have predicted the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic and the associated need to maintain safe social distancing, we are glad that our customers now have a way to reach out to us online where they once may have been obligated to speak with us in person. Notably, the company has and continues to maintain a working phone and email service, and customers are encouraged to make use of these utilities as well at their convenience.

In particular, the company observes that the new website is easier to navigate and does a better job of leading potential customers to the services they are likely to be looking for. A homeowner may want the exterior surfaces of their home given a fresh application of paint, for instance, and they can locate this service on ACP Painting's website by simply scrolling down on the main page. Similarly, customers will learn here that the company offers interior painting for houses as well, in addition to commercial interior and exterior painting, metal painting, cabinet painting and even stucco & drywall repairs and painting.

Regarding interior painting, however, the company emphasizes that their employees are taking a host of precautions in order to protect everyone involved from the risk of infection. According to the company, "Our interior painting services may now, unfortunately, prove to be more of an inconvenience to you than they previously were simply because we are obligated to ensure the safety of both your family as well as our staff. However, we can reassure you that we are well suited to the task if you should wish to have your building's interior painted. Just head over to our website or give us a call to learn more about our process."

Customers should note here that the company does not foresee any complications of this nature for exterior painting services since person-to-person contact in such a scenario is much easier to keep to a minimum. As such, they advise homeowners and businesses to capitalize on this fact and get their property's exteriors done sooner rather than later, should the need arise.

Customers who have previously contracted the company's services tend to have excellent reviews to share regarding ACP Painting's work. In their 5-Star Google review, for instance, Traci Paige commends the ACP Painting crew for their professionalism, punctuality, quality, responsiveness and value. Paige explains, "This painting company goes above and beyond any expectations. I cannot recommend them highly enough. I had my entire interior and exterior painted. They are perfectionists when it comes to painting. Daniel and his crew are punctual, friendly, considerate and do an outstanding job! And the owners, Russ and Rob, were involved every step of the way. I couldn't have asked for more."

More information regarding the company's services and availability can be found on their website. Those interested in learning more are welcome to reach out to Russ Byers of ACP Painting, LLC in order to follow up on any further inquiries. Similarly, the company can be found on multiple social media platforms, including Facebook, Instagram and so on.
