Libertyville, IL based magnetic charm manufacturer Simply Charmed is reaching out to their community to share a list of topics and prompts that can help families keep the awkward silences at bay during their Zoom calls. These fun family zoom call topics can be found in a recent blog post that the company has published on their website. Freely accessible to all who wish to read further, the post offers a great many ideas that are sure to jumpstart its readers? next Zoom call and get the conversation flowing.

?With the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic and the nationwide calls to self-quarantine that followed soon after,? the company observes, ?video conferencing has taken off in recent months among families as well as various businesses. The former, however, do not have active operations to haggle over like many businesses will no doubt be doing, and they are not able to take part in the spring and summer activities they were probably looking forward to. As such, this lack of outside experience can give some Zoom callers much less material to work with and talk about, especially if their families are the type to make calls on a regular basis. There is only so much you can bring up before you start wishing the call was over.?

However, Simply Charmed believes that the best way to get through the negative effects of the isolation brought about by the Lockdown is to keep in touch in any way possible (within safe social distancing guidelines). In turn, they believe that the key to maintaining good conversation may lie in approaching this activity with a little bit of preparation. As the blog post says, ?for some family members that are living in different cities or states, a virtual video call is the best way to see and talk to each other. In this challenging time, making calls or Zoom chats are important to keep our relationships strong, and to keep everyone sane.?

Fortunately, Simply Charmed has done much of this preparation on their readers? behalf. In their blog post, they have compiled 20 topics that families can use to rekindle dialogue and perhaps spark a journey down memory lane. There may be little in the way of new adventures to share, but the company expects that families may benefit just as much from remembering their past experiences as they would have discussing new ones. The topics they have shared include new family recipes that each household has learned since the quarantine started, treasured memories that have not been shared before, favourite binge of TV series and movies, travel destinations everyone can travel to once the lockdown is lifted and so on. The full list can be found in Simply Charmed?s recent blog post.

The company adds in the post that, ?While Lockdown is still in full effect, online happy hours, movie nights, romantic dinners and even family gatherings will have to do. Always remember, this is just a temporary setting. We can still see and talk with our loved ones through a virtual setting for now. Make your family Zoom time more fun and exciting with these tips.?

Simply Charmed?s post is also a testament to some of the key concepts that they base their business around, creativity and joy, which are both evident in the products that they create. The company is best known for the wide variety of magnetic wine glass charms (also known as wine glass markers) that they produce. These innovative and useful little charms are used to denote a glass? owner and help avoid confusion during busy gatherings. However, the company?s customers have noted that their charms add a touch of elegance and personality no matter the situation at hand. Given that Simply Charmed?s charms come in an expansive variety of themes and designs, they have been known to delight many of the company?s customers.
