May 22, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Flood Co., a Centerville, Utah based company, would like to announce the availability of their mold removal services. They recently worked on a home in the area where mold was found during an inspection. Water from a leaking tub resulted in moisture collecting behind the wall, and incorrect tiling allowed the water to get into the walls. This water ended up in the basement as well, resulting in two bathrooms needing to be demolished and rebuilt due to structural damages from the mold. Visit <https://www.thefloodco.com/park-city-utah-mold-removal/> for more information on mold removal.

When one needs mold removal in Park City, The Flood Co. is perhaps the best company in the area for the job. There are thousands of different types of mold, and many of these can be found growing in Utah homes, causing structural damage to the properties they infest and even causing health problems for their residents. With so many types of mold, it can be difficult to determine whether or not one needs professional help to handle their mold problem.

"If you suspect you might have mold in your home, we guarantee that we can provide the best Park City, Utah mold removal services you can find," says the mold removal company. "Don't worry about fixing the mold problem yourself. Our professional staff can do it quickly and safely, ensuring you can continue living in your Park City, Utah home without the severe health risks caused by mold growth. When you hire the Flood

Co., you know you are getting the best in the mold removal business. We specialize in Park City, Utah mold removal and will bring your home back to its original condition.?

The first step in any mold removal job is to identify the type of mold and precisely where it is located. Mold growth is a very serious health hazard, and it must be dealt with quickly and safely to ensure that all traces are removed completely. Severe allergic reactions and upper respiratory problems are just two of the issues that mold can cause?and both can potentially be fatal. Some of the symptoms that mold can cause include eye irritation, nasal congestion, coughing, skin irritation, throat irritation, persistent sneezing, difficulty breathing and headaches.

?Mold can grow almost anywhere. If you have any damp areas in your Park City, Utah home, you can get mold growth,? says The Flood Co. ?Mold reproduces by spores, which are spread by air currents. If your home sustains water damage or has a leak, mold can begin to grow. Mold can be a result of flooding, roof leaks, indoor plumbing problems, or incomplete drying of floor materials, such as carpet or concrete. If your Park City, Utah home has a crawl space floor or a basement floor without a vapor barrier, it could be prone to mold growth. The Flood Co. has the skills and expertise to test your home for mold growth and to perform a complete mold removal program, bringing your home back to safety and health standards.?

A large number of clients have left excellent reviews of the company on various platforms. One 5-Star Google Maps review states, ?Daryl and The Flood Co. did an amazing job! They came out immediately to assess the problem and got right to work to make things right. They worked with my insurance and advised me in what they were doing, and got a very fair settlement. They helped with some extras that I requested, and they were very fair in their pricing. They did excellent work and cleaned up after themselves. I highly recommend them!?

Another client on the same platform says, ?We had a water leak in our basement family room. They came out promptly and offered some good advice. We had already identified the primary cause but in their inspection another, much slower, leak was uncovered. They presented the options without any pressure or attempt to take advantage of a stressful situation. They provided us with the equipment we needed to dry things out. If you want fair, professional service, they are who you want.?
