May 18, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Gonzales, LA based Southern Exterior Softwash Baton Rouge is reaching out to local homeowners in order to recommend that they have their roofs cleaned via an expert soft wash service, such as the one the company provides. Given the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and the need to maintain safe social distancing, the company reassures their community that having the roofs cleaned in this manner poses no risk to their health as long as certain precautions are taken. As Southern Exterior Softwash is one of the top soft wash roof cleaning companies in Baton Rouge, LA and the surrounding communities, they have a wealth of insight to share with their customers and other parties who are interested in such services. To begin with, the company explains that soft washing utilizes an electrical agricultural sprayer to apply a water-based biodegradable disinfecting cleaning solution that can kill mold, mildew, bacteria, algae, fungi, moss and other unwanted organisms that are known to grow on exterior home and building surfaces.

Over the course of a soft washing service, all organic stains on an exterior surface (such as a roof) can be removed, and this method of cleaning is notable for the gentle manner in which the process is carried out. In fact, the company notes that, "The Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association recommends low-pressure bleach or detergent assisted washing as the preferred method for cleaning asphalt roofs in order to prevent damage to the shingles."

Southern Exterior Softwash adds that soft washing is by no means the same as power washing, which uses high-power sprays to achieve a similar, if rougher, cleaning effect. Power washing is also relatively energy intensive. "Knowing that your entire family is likely to be spending their whole day under the same roof," the company observes, "we recommend that you choose a reliable and well-known soft washing service to clean your home's exterior surfaces. It is quite easy for us to keep all noise to a minimum so you can rest assured that you will not be disturbed as we carry out our work.? Customers are welcome to reach out to the company in order to learn more about their exterior cleaning services.

The lockdown presents an opportunity for homeowners who may have otherwise been too busy to inspect their homes once a cleaning session was complete. This means they can look over the company?s work instantly once the job is complete, and all parties can maintain a safe social distance at all times as well. Southern Exterior Softwash adds that they even accept payment through electronic means, virtually eliminating any need for person-to-person contact.

?We prioritize the customer?s satisfaction every time we are called out to soft wash a home,? asserts the company. ?This means that we strive to deliver the service you deserve at every stage of the process. Naturally, this extends beyond the soft wash itself, so you can rest assured that we will take your health and safety extremely seriously. Fortunately, we have always sought to make our services as convenient for our customers as well, so you can converse with us and even make your payment through whatever digital means you are most comfortable with.? While many customers prefer to use the phone or an email provider in this situation, the company states that customers may approach them through social media platforms as well.

Reviews shared of the company generally describe an excellent experience. In a recent Facebook review, Sam Denton says, ?Christian and his team did a great job of making our house shine during Corona! They were very efficient, timely and effective! We will post pictures tomorrow. We can tell a huge difference with our siding, stucco, windows and interior fence. Thank you! More reviews can be found on the same space, and the company boasts a full 5-Star rating as well.
