BeVisible Sports, a San Francisco, California based company, has announced the launch of its products on the Amazon UK marketplace. The company states that due to the popularity of its products in the United States markets, they have decided to expand their product offerings into Europe, and the UK in particular.

The company's plantar fasciitis foot compression sleeves have now been launched in the UK. The foot sleeves are designed to offer support for the ankles and arches, reducing pain in the foot and heel and providing relief from plantar fasciitis.

Plantar fasciitis is a common source of heel pain, caused when the ligament connecting the heel bone to the toes becomes weak, irritated, or swollen. This can cause the bottom of the foot and the heel to become painful when pressure is placed on it, such as when standing or walking.

Repeated strain of the ligament can cause tears, which lead to pain and swelling, an injury very common in those who roll their feet when they walk. Other causes include high arches, flat feet, those who tend to spend long periods of time on their feet, wearing shoes that are worn, or being overweight.

BeVisible Sports recently released a foot sleeves video that outlines the benefits of the product. Those in the UK interested in the product can also read Dame Bradley's review, which outlines more of the benefits of the foot sleeves.

Sandy B., spokesperson for BeVisible Sports, commented on the product and its launch into the UK marketplace. The spokesperson said, "We're excited to be expanding of course, but more so because we know that this is a good product and we want to help people to live pain-free."

The foot compression socks offer graduated compression which has been found to help to boost circulation to the feet. This reduces swelling and allows tired feet to recover faster. They are designed for use every day, and ideal for anyone who plays sports on a regular basis.

The company sells the foot compression sleeves in pairs, and offers a complete customer satisfaction 100 percent money back guarantee for 90 days from the purchase date. Customers are finding them to be beneficial in alleviating pain associated with arches, heels, ankle strains, Achilles heels, edema, fascia ligament strain, and other injuries.

The compression foot sleeves can be worn all day and at night, while playing sports, working out, or doing daily tasks. They are also designed to be worn during recovery from injuries, and can be worn alone or under socks.

Since its release on the U.S. Amazon marketplace, the sleeves have gained mass reviews. One customer states that, "My foot suffers from leftover sciatic nerve damage following two back surgeries. One of those symptoms is that my left foot aches if I play tennis for more than an hour. The other foot was in a cast for six weeks last year because of severe plantar fasciitis. Pleased to say that they DO seem to help me! They feel both comfortable and supportive on my feet."

More about the compression foot sleeves can be seen on the Amazon marketplace or on the official website for BeVisible Sports.
