May 26, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

MedSpa Clubs, a medical spa based in Queens NY, has announced that they have reopened but with limited hours only and they are accepting customers by appointment only. Appointments for the medical spa can be booked online through their website. They want people to know that they remain committed to their mission of enhancing their customers? natural beauty by using non-surgical methods, such as LPG Endermologie and Velashape to remove cellulite, unwanted wrinkles, and smooth out the skin.

This medical spa was founded by Nikki Zhang, a licensed acupuncturist with more than 15 years of experience. She established MedSpa Clubs after noticing that the results of body contouring treatments never lasted for long and this is because they don?t take into account holistic considerations. The treatments offered at MedSpa Clubs are based on her deep belief in traditional Chinese medicine and the need to address the root causes of skin conditions or weight gain.

Nikki Zhang says, ?We?re happy to have reopened New York City?s most innovative medical spa, combining holistic practices with the latest body contouring and facial rejuvenation technology. Be rest assured that we are following strict protocols to ensure the safety of our customers and our staff. Also, please note that we have reopened with limited hours and customers who want to use our services will need to book an appointment first.?

MedSpa Clubs offers skincare treatments for the face and body, including acupuncture. They can help customers find the appropriate treatment for their type of skin. For instance, their micro-current treatment is for reducing crow?s feet and wrinkles. This treatment uses low electrical currents that mimic the body?s own currents. It has been observed that such electrical stimulation may repair skin cells on the cellular level and stimulate collagen production through the dermis. Those who are interested in knowing the location and other important information about MedSpa Clubs can check out their GMB listing.

Meanwhile, they also offer the Herbs2Peel, which are specialized herbal peel treatments patented by Alex Cosmetics. For instance, the B Peel is a treatment that lasts for one hour and may instantly refresh and rejuvenate the skin. The C Peel is also a one-hour treatment that is complemented by five days of at-home care for the stimulation of complete skin regeneration.

For smoothing and plumping the skin, they offer oxygen injection treatment. The purpose of this treatment to directly provide oxygen to the skin when the subcutaneous capillaries are unable to provide sufficient oxygen to the skin. Another important treatment for the skin is cosmetic acupuncture, whose purpose is to stimulate collagen production. Through the insertion of thin, stainless steel needles into the face, the body is stimulated to produce collagen.

For body contouring, one of their popular treatments is the LPG Endermologie M6. This is made up of a fluid immobilization treatment, followed by relaxation, and then endermopressure treatment. The fluid immobilization treatment is for stimulating circulatory exchanges that prevent water retention and drain toxins from the body. Thirty minutes of relaxation is used to release muscular tension, eliminate stress, and result in a body-mind balance. The endermopressure treatment will last for 50 minutes and is designed to simultaneously stimulate fibroblasts, adipocytes, and their environment. The result is a possibly slimmer body and reduction of the appearance of cellulite.

Other body treatments include the VelaShape III, cryolipolysis, and InMode Body Ex. Acupuncture treatment may also be offered for fighting cellulite accumulation, bloating, toxin aggregation, and poor well-being.
