Edmonton, Alberta based Air Conditioning Edmonton is reaching out to the wider community to announce that they are now servicing homeowners in Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta. In addition to Fort Saskatchewan and their original service area around Edmonton, the company can now respond to customers in locations such as Sherwood Park, Spruce Grove, St Albert and so on.

As Air Conditioning Edmonton explains, Fort Saskatchewan is a mid-sized city along the North Saskatchewan River in Alberta, Canada. Located 25 kilometres north east of Edmonton, it is a thriving city—one of Alberta's fastest growing cities, in fact—and is home to a young, emerging affluent, family demographic who all make use of air conditioners and other HVAC equipment. Air Conditioning Edmonton makes life easy for the residents of Fort Saskatchewan by providing 24-hour emergency heating and cooling services.

The company states that it is vital for any and all homes that have HVAC systems to have a reliable HVAC contractor they can contact in times of need. Air conditioners and heaters are both vital appliances in any home, and homeowners may not be able to address any issues by themselves. While small problems, such as replacing a dirty air filter, can easily be done by homeowners, a wide variety of other problems that an HVAC appliance may present with would require the skills and knowledge of air conditioning repair experts.

Since air conditioning systems are quite complicated in nature, Air Conditioning Edmonton advises homeowners not to do any repairs on their own, especially if they need to open up the appliance. The company says, "Trying to do air conditioning repairs on your own is a bad idea for two main reasons. The first is that there are several safety hazards that most people will not be able to handle, and the second is that you stand to damage the equipment further instead of actually doing any repairs. Our recommendation is always that you reach out to a professional. In fact, make sure you perform regular maintenance on your HVAC equipment so that any potential issues can be resolved before they grow into major problems and cause substantial damage to the unit."

The company also shares that homeowners should be able to understand problems their air conditioning and heating units might have. According to the company, if air conditioning systems give off a lot of noise, this could be caused by problems in the belts or the ductwork on the property, especially if the ducts have not been sealed properly. If water begins to form all over the unit or leaks appear, the issue is likely that the drainage system is faulty. Knowing what problem they are facing, will help the homeowner know when to contact an expert and get the issue solved quicker.

Air Conditioning Edmonton provides high quality services that are appreciated by the local community, as is made evident by the company's reviews. On the Google platform alone, the HVAC specialist has a rating of 4.4 out of 5 Stars. In a recent 5-Star review, Bianca Oliviera says, "We had a brand new furnace and AC put in yesterday, and we could not be happier! Reasonable price, and the technician was extremely knowledgeable and friendly. Looking forward to the summer now."

Meanwhile, Amili Gottlibe shares his experience with Air Conditioning Edmonton in another 5-Star review, saying, "We recently purchased a HVAC system from Air Conditioning Edmonton. Not only did Dwight and Tim come out the same day, their service was superb! Answered all of our questions and made us feel comfortable. The installation went unbelievably well, and it kept us cool all summer. Thanks again, guys."
