A new company out of Wyoming, Bullfrog Data, is helping Amazon sellers acquire real emails and phone numbers for their customers. Bullfrog Data is a new company which has as an objective helping Amazon sellers increase their reach and their sales, and is making this announcement in order to bring it to the attention of those who might be in need of such a service.

?We wanted to let people know about our new company and our new service,? says Steve Mallory of Bullfrog Data. ?Bullfrog Data is able to do something no one else is able to do. Namely, acquire real customer emails for Amazon sellers.?

Bullfrog Data unlocks customer contact information, helping Amazon sellers take control of their destinies by acquiring real emails and phone numbers. The executive team behind Bullfrog Data has decades of experience with data enhancement services and customer demographic data. Bullfrog Data might be a fairly new endeavour, specifically created to service the Amazon Seller community, but the team behind it are far from new to the business. Bullfrog has features and services aimed at Amazon sellers, but they are not limited only to Amazon sellers.

?Customer info is a big part of the puzzle for Amazon sellers when it comes to resources for managing their Amazon business,? says Mister Mallory. ?We?ve opened our doors and are looking forward to providing this service for those who sell on Amazon.?
