Even when the state of South Carolina has lifted the stay at home order, there are still workers who choose to retain their home office setup. Besides safety, the cost of commuting, improvements in technology, and the desire for a comfortable, drama-free zone have many employees taking work home, according to LowCountry Home Magazine.

The Premiere Home Builders Publication provides some tips on how to create an office set up at home. The first part is establishing the basics. Access to electrical outlets, a high-speed Internet connection, and a telephone are all necessary items nowadays, the media company adds. Every home office should have a good computer, printer, functional desk, appropriate lighting, and a quality chair.

Once all essential items are there, the next step is choosing and designing the space. The home office should provide comfort to promote productivity. ?Unlike many corporate offices, a home office allows you to decorate your space with things that make you feel happy, so shoot for comfort and details that make a statement about yourself,? LowCountry Home Magazine states.

The Best Media Company in Bluffton, SC also shared that most home buyers nowadays prefer a home with an office or with extra space that can be converted into one. Thus, having one increases the value of a home.
