

Pensacola Service Provider Certified By National Fireplace Institute

August 28, 2015

August 28, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Doodlebuggers, a business in Pensacola, FL, is proud to announce that one of its network members, Neil Hamel, has been certified by the National Fireplace Institute (NFI). This means that he is fully licensed to install and service Pensacola fireplaces. Hamel will also be listed on the NFI website as a preferred provider. With this, he would be able to further guarantee the quality of his work.

"To become certified with the NFI, you have to prove and demonstrate that you know the industry and the business of fireplaces," says Tonia from Doodlebuggers. "Neil has had to complete rigorous training in order to receive the certification and this proves that he is one of the best. We believe our customers deserve nothing but the best, so we are happy that we are able to provide them with that through our network."

Doodlebuggers is a network of professionals that provide various services, including chimney repairs. When it comes to chimney repairs Pensacola residents also expect nothing but the best, as they should. A problem with a chimney can have devastating consequences, including house fires and carbon monoxide poisoning. Hence, only fully qualified professionals, such as those from Doodlebuggers, should be able to perform them.

The Doodlebuggers network also offers a range of other services. "We deal with chimneys, air ducts, dryer vents and mold," adds Tonia. "Plus, we have a hearth store where customers can purchase fireplaces, gas logs, fireplace mantels, fireplace doors and accessories. We guarantee the quality and safety of all our work and our products."

The Doodlebuggers Service Network only allows properly qualified professionals to become members of the group. This is how they feel they would be able to guarantee the quality of their work and to put the safety of their customers first and above all else. They offer residential and commercial services and also work together with property managers. For their work, they have received A+ accreditation with the Better Business Bureau, as well as the Super Service Award from Angie's List. They are also registered with all the relevant professional bodies for the work that they do.
