June 11, 2020 -
McKinney, Texas based The Funeral Program Site, a platform dedicated to providing funeral templates and memorials, is pleased to announce that they have received a new inventory of downloadable DIY funeral program templates, funeral poems and custom funeral guest book designs.

Carole Galassi, a company spokesperson, says, ?We understand that losing a loved one is difficult, whether it is from a long standing illness or more recent events such as COVID-19. As people who were left behind, we feel the pain and loss. We look back to all the happy times we have spent with our lost loved ones and regret not spending more moments with them. Sadly, we cannot turn back time to do this?but what we can do though is make sure we honor their memory and give them a good farewell.?

The Funeral Program Site gives people the chance to ensure that the memory of their loved one can be honored properly and be memorialized with the respect they deserve. They aim to be a one-stop online resource for all funeral printed memorials and personalized memorials.

As noted on their website, the company offers a wide range of death care products and services that include funeral program templates, which are ready-made files that contain various backgrounds with accompanying filler text. This filler text can easily be altered to include a customer?s specific service information. Furthermore, their funeral program templates are designed to provide a quick and easy way to produce a printed memorial, which Galassi asserts is especially important given that life is already stressful enough after losing a loved one. By saving time using funeral program templates instead of starting from scratch, The Funeral Program Site helps families spend more time properly mourning for and honoring their deceased loved one.

The Funeral Program Site also offers ready-made, Do It Yourself (DIY) funeral program templates and has the largest selection of easy-to-use, do-it-yourself programs. ?Our templates also allow easier customization because we provide funeral related clip arts and elegant word arts. You can also select from a variety of backgrounds and various funeral program layout designs to find the perfect background and layout for your lost loved one,? she says.

Similarly, their custom funeral programs are easily editable with commonly used software such as Microsoft Word, Publisher or Apple Pages. In fact, Galassi states that the programs can be printed using a home printer or at a local copy shop. Alternatively, The Funeral Program Site offers quality funeral guest book designs and affordable printing services.

?We want to help you get started creating a beautifully printed program that honors your loved one?s memory. Our easy-to-use template is versatile and can be used for any funeral or memorial service. If you are looking for high quality designs backed with our friendly customer support, you have come to the right place. You will receive our friendly customer support, step-by-step video tutorials, FAQs, and extensive questions database with every purchase,? Galassi adds.

Customers may find personalized awareness and cancer ribbons on the platform as well. They specialize in the creation of personalized double-faced satin awareness and memorial ribbons, available for every cause and in every color. Some examples of the company?s customized ribbons are the child loss awareness ribbon, COVID-19 memorial ribbon, lung cancer ribbon and personalized musician ribbon. More designs and customization options can be viewed on the company?s website.

Should it be required, customers may use the company?s services to obtain funeral poems, a beautiful and heartfelt way for someone grieving to express love, grief and sadness, among other feelings, that come with losing a loved one. The company explains that those who are left behind can feel better and be comforted by listening to a carefully chosen funeral poem that suits the personality and situation of the loved one who has passed. The poems provided span a wide range of topics, including love and life, death, religion and even funeral sayings.

The Funeral Program Site has been serving the death care industry and assisting families with the loss of their loved ones for over two decades, offering many options for every budget and timeframe. Those interested may find more information on their website.
