June 08, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Chambliss Plumbing Company, based in San Antonio, Texas, has explained why they have partnered with Rinnai in providing tankless water heaters to their customers. They want to point out that they trust that Rinnai will be able to provide the best services for their customers because of Rinnai's commitment to quality that has made them the leading tankless water heater brand in North America. More info about the water heater installation and repairs services provided by the company can be gleaned from <https://just-water-heaters.com>.

Kevin Chambliss, owner of Chambliss Plumbing Company, says, "For over 100 years Rinnai has been committed to producing consumers a smarter kind of comfort, and at CPC we feel like we are able to give our customer the best value by providing them with a Rinnai tankless water heater." He continues, "We are excited to work with such a great company like Rinnai and be able to provide our customers new, innovative options to have instant and endless hot water, remove the liability of having water stored in your attic, and increase the footprint of your house."

Chambliss Plumbing Company has been working with Rinnai as of 2019 as one of their only ACE Pro certified dealers in San Antonio. Meanwhile, Rinnai is looking to align their brand with plumbing companies that share their values, particularly in offering a superior product, combined with high quality service to provide the best experience for their customers.

Kevin Chambliss adds, "We are excited to work with such a great company like Rinnai and be able to provide our customers new, innovative options to have instant and endless hot water, remove the liability of having water stored in your attic, and increase the footprint of your house."

A tankless water heater is designed to provide a way to heat water without having to store hot water. This offers the advantage of taking up much less space than conventional water heaters. Also, tankless water heaters don't have the usual problems of heat loss and limited hot water. While having bigger burners, these tankless units are more energy efficient. They may cost more to install and require more maintenance but they are much more convenient to use.

Meanwhile, aside from tankless water heaters, Chambliss Plumbing Company offers a broad range of water water heaters, from gas or electric water heaters to the tankless models. This may be a bit confusing to homeowners and other property owners, but professional plumbing companies, like Chambliss Plumbing, can provide some guidance. They can also provide comprehensive and honest advice on whether a water heater repair or a water heater replacement is the better option.

And for homes with hard water, Chambliss Plumbing offers water softener repair and installation. More about this service can be gleaned from the website just-water-softeners.com. Having a water softening system will not just affect how much water is consumed in the home but also help reduce energy consumption and allow better maintenance of plumbing fixtures.

In a home with hard water, there would be a build-up of the minerals found in the water and this could cause damage to the fittings, pipes, and appliances. This will involve a lot of expenses that would be avoided if a water softening system is installed.

Furthermore, soft water has beneficial effects on the skin and hair health. By eliminating the minerals from the hard water, the hair and skin will feel more moisturized, allowing them to become smoother and softer, compared to bathing in hard water.

Soft water also means that more lather will be produced, thus requiring less soap or cosmetics when people wash or bathe. It also decreases the amount of cleaning solutions for cleaning various parts of the home. In fact, the amount of detergents and soap products consumed may be decreased by up to 50 percent when a water softening system is installed. This will also help save time and a significant amount of money.
