Steadfast Tree Care has just posted a new blog that Shares Important Summer Tree Care Tips for Residents of Mechanicsville. This information comes from one of the most experienced tree service providers in the Central Virginia area. Mechanicsville homeowners can use this information to help them get their trees through the summer heat in the healthiest possible way. This new blog can be read in its entirety here at https://steadfasttree.care/summer-tree-care-mechanicsville/.

The blog article started by comparing trees to humans. It stated that just as humans need some extra water during the summer so do the trees in one?s yard. It mentioned that this was especially vital for young trees during their first two years of life. The article says this is because that?s the time when young trees establish their critical root structure and water plays a big role in that. In the post, it recommended doing deep watering that moistens the soil around a tree several times a week during the hottest part of the summer. The blog also warned against oversaturating the soil with water to the point that the added water starts to puddle. It was also mentioned in the post that laying a nice layer of mulch around a tree during the summer would help. Much plays several roles in keeping a tree healthy during the summer months. The most important of which are it protects the roots from sunlight and helps keep them moist and it provides a tree with essential nutrients. It was also stated in the blog not to cover the trunk of the tree with any of the mulch. The blog article also mentioned that homeowners should keep an eye out for unwanted pests. It stated that insects such as Japanese beetles, spider mites, bagworms, and spotted lanternflies can be very harmful to trees.

For those homeowners in Mechanicsville that want to combine summer tree care with tree trimming, they will find this article found here at https://www.pressadvantage.com/story/36457-steadfast-tree-care-publishes-blog-post-on-tree-trimming to be a big help to them.

Phillip Wood, the company owner, also added this, ?One thing we strongly emphasize here at Steadfast Tree Care is customer service. The informational blogs we post on our website are a big part of that. Trees are the business we are in but it takes teamwork with our customers if we are going to help them keep their trees looking good and as healthy as possible. We can handle the medium and larger tree tasks but it?s also essential that our customers do their part and do the little tree care steps the right way. Our blogs have proven to be a great way to teach our customers the role that they play in keeping their trees and overall landscape as healthy as possible.?

The excellent customer care that this company gives its clients is not the only reason they are so highly rated by those that have used their services.
