MedSpa Clubs is a Queens, NY based beauty enhancement clinic. Among the most popular services that they offer is their laser hair removal treatments. The clinic took the time to explain the differences between the two different forms of laser hair removal that they offer. They hope this will help their clients have an easier time choosing which of these helpful hair removal solutions is right for them. Their mission is to enhance a person's natural beauty, not to radically change their appearance. They do this by combining holistic practices with modern technology and this never includes the use of surgery.

Clinic founder and licensed acupuncturist Nikki Zhang had this to say, "It does not matter whether you are a man or a woman, just about everyone has visible hair on their body someplace where they wish they didn't. For men, this may be having hair on their back or neck and women often complain when they have hair on their legs, the bikini line, or the facial area. The good news is that hair in these areas can be easily and painlessly removed and it will not come back for a while if ever. Our laser hair removal treatments will not only help you get rid of hair on the areas of your body where you don't want it but they will leave you feeling more confident in the way that you look too. There simply is no reason that with our modern and pain-free hair removal solutions, you should ever have to put up with unwanted body hair again."

Zhang first talked about a hair removal technique that they do that uses what is known as a PicoSecond Laser. This technique uses concentrated light beams at a single wavelength. This light is precisely projected into hair follicles with the goal of killing them. It's such an accurate procedure that it does not damage the skin around the hair follicles. She said that this method of hair removal typically takes 3 to 6 sessions for results to appear and it's the recommended method for patients with darker skin tones because the decreased exposure is safer for melanin-rich skin. The clinic founder also talked a little about their other hair removal method which is called IPL (Intense Pulsed Light). She said that this form of treatment involves using laser light that is projected in a range of wavelengths as its being shot into the skin. It then penetrates the dermis and damages or destroys hair follicles to prevent further growth. It usually takes around 5 to 7 sessions for this method to produce results because of the reduced intensity of the laser involved. Zhang added this is their most affordable laser hair removal treatment and those with busy schedules prefer it because treatment times are shorter. She also emphasized that this type of laser hair treatment is not recommended for individuals with darker skin tones.

Not only are MedSpa Clubs laser hair removal treatments very popular but they are also highly rated by those that have used them. Here is an example of that in a review taken from this beauty enhancement clinic's Google Maps Listing. Meredith Howser writes, "The professional atmosphere just can't be matched. I got satisfying massage and hair removal treatments done, and the staff was very polite the entire time."

Zhang also wanted to remind their clients they are being very proactive at this time when it comes to safety regarding the current COVID-19 virus. She says they have gone to great lengths to make people feel comfortable when coming to get treatments. They are doing such things as keeping the entire clinic at an even higher level of sanitation and by adding new social distancing measures to the waiting room. She says they have even started doing consultations virtually to reduce the risks clients face while traveling to and from the clinic for something that can easily be explained over the internet using the modern technology that's available.

Other services that MedSpa Clubs offers include acupuncture, massage therapy, herbal peels, and fat freezing Cryolipolysis. The clinic founder added that all of their services are explained in much more detail on their website and their Facebook Page has good information about the clinic on it too.
