As noted on the clinic's website, Dr. Harry W. Brown established the facility in 1977 to satisfy the demand for patient care following car accidents. Through complementary medicine and chiropractic treatments, victims are able to find light in spite of the challenges, and with the help of their doctors, are able to fully recover.

Arrowhead Clinic believes that car accidents are one of the most prevalent issues faced by Georgia residents. Car crashes not only wreck property but also cause personal injuries that result in chronic body pain, which in turn leads to the prompt need for chiropractic care. This kind of treatment crucially does not require the insertion of medical instruments in order to realign the spine and help the affected parts of the body to recover. It also does not require surgery, drugs or other forms of pain medication that may cause addiction. In fact, chiropractors are able to treat injuries in the neck, back and spine, as well as whiplash or head jerks, sprains and strains.

Arrowhead Clinic also informs the general public of the impact of whiplash and soft-tissue injuries caused by car collisions. These kinds of injuries affect the muscles, ligaments, tendons, blood vessels and synovial membranes, all of which are needed for connection and support of the musculoskeletal structures and organs. In addition, failure to treat such injuries may lead to extreme, intolerable pain in the future, so even the mildest of symptoms need to be treated immediately.

Aside from chiropractic treatment, Arrowhead Clinic also offers practical advice regarding the pursuit of legal compensation after a car accident. They assert that the insurance company of the driver who caused the accident should pay all of the victim's medical bills. Patients are also advised to hire professional injury attorneys to make sure that they will be granted medical liens and that their bills will be fully paid by the at-fault party.

In addition, Arrowhead Clinic also counsels patients on how to avoid car accidents in the future. While they acknowledge that the need for car safety goes without saying, it is often overlooked by most drivers. In order to avoid distractions and subsequent conflicts with the police, drivers must always keep their eyes on the road. This means that they should not use their cell phones or listen to the radio while driving their vehicles. They should also resist the temptation to drink alcohol before or during a drive as it might inhibit their senses. Lastly, they should always remain calm and keep their composure while driving in order to avoid unnecessary encounters with other drivers on the road.

Throughout their 40+ years in operation, Arrowhead Clinic has received high praise from many of their patients. In fact, Ms. Michelle, in a glowing review on the clinic's website, states that the chiropractors at Arrowhead Clinic are always ready to help their patients and offer guidance in the aftermath of a car accident. They also helped her take care of her 18-month old baby while she underwent treatment. Meanwhile, Elton Spencer adds that the chiropractors at Arrowhead Clinic helped him from start to finish and advised him to treat his injuries at once in order to avoid further complications.

Car crash victims who want to receive rapid treatment may visit the Arrowhead Clinic in Marietta to consult with a professional car accident chiropractor from the clinic's team of professionals. The practice offers first time clients a free consultation where they will be asked about their medical history, particularly the circumstances of past auto accidents. If they wish to continue, they may request a physical examination so that the chiropractors can begin forming a diagnosis as soon as possible. The examination includes full body evaluation, X-Rays, palpitation testing, neurological diagnostic testing and range of motion testing.

Complete details can be found on the clinic's website. Alternatively, patients may connect with Arrowhead Clinic online via social media to stay up to date with their news and announcements.
