Chiropractor In Riverdale Shares Insight On What To Do After Suffering A Car Accident Back Injury

June 19, 2020

Riverdale, Georgia - June 19, 2020 -
Riverdale, Georgia based Arrowhead Clinic is reaching out to the community to share information on what to do after suffering a back injury caused by a car accident.

The first few weeks after a car accident can be chaotic for the people involved. Between the insurance paperwork and the repairs that their vehicle needs, most people tend to overlook what may be the most important consequence of the accident: the deterioration of their health and any injuries they have sustained. What may seem like a minor car accident at first sight can still have a serious impact on a person's health, and what may initially present itself as a minor discomfort or lack of mobility can escalate into a severe affliction that affects their quality of life.

Dr. Traci Autera, a car accident chiropractor in Riverdale and a representative of the Arrowhead Clinic, says, "If you have been in a car accident and think that you may have suffered a back injury, you need immediate medical attention. Severe back injuries can result in complications such as nerve damage and even paralysis. Even if it is not clearly evident at first that your accident caused a back injury, seeking medical aid is still sensible as back injuries can lead to serious consequences if not diagnosed and treated properly."

Dr. Autera states that one of the best forms of medical treatment that a car accident victim can receive after an accident is chiropractic care. This is because chiropractors are specially trained in the musculoskeletal system and can diagnose back injuries as well as develop treatment programs. These treatment plans are centered around preventing further injuries, reducing pain and promoting the body's natural healing process. This helps the patient recover without surgical intervention, greatly speeding up their recovery.

"Some of the injuries you may have suffered during your car accident, though not evident at first, include Bulging and Herniated Discs, Whiplash, Spinal fractures and Soft tissue damage," states Dr. Autera. She notes that the victim may have to pay for costly medical treatment and other expenses that should have been paid by the negligent party if they avoid medical treatment after their accident. The longer they wait before seeking medical attention, the further the injuries will progress, incurring in higher chiropractic care costs and reducing the chances of a full recovery from a back injury.

Bolstered by a reputation for being one of the best chiropractic care clinics in Georgia, the Arrowhead Clinic opens their doors to any car accident victims in the area. They offer the most distinguished care, provided by highly-qualified professionals that specialize in car accident injuries. Through personalized care, the clinic guarantees patients the best chance of recovery, tailoring a special treatment according to their individual afflictions and lifestyle.

Additionally, the clinic states that their injury chiropractors can also assist patients with the legal details of their case, referring them to a reliable personal injury attorney who can offer assistance with the process. For patients who are already in contact with an attorney, the clinic states that they can work with legal counsel in order to keep a complete medical record of the injuries sustained during the accident.

Dr. Autera states, "If you are looking for a car accident chiropractor nearby, you should not settle for anything but the best practitioners in the area. With several years of experience in the field, we have helped countless patients fully recover from their ailments, helping them live normal lives after their car accidents."
