June 19, 2020 -
Calgary, Alberta based Corefront Custom Renovations is reaching out to the community to announce that they now offer free consultations. Homeowners are welcome to contact the company at their earliest convenience in order to get started planning on their dream project.

Following through with their promise of helping the community build the house of their dreams, Corefront Custom Renovations has now implemented free consultations into their services. This addresses a common source of concern for Calgary homeowners who are often overcome with uncertainty when they weigh any decisions regarding new renovations on their property.

"We hope that the community can make the most out of our team's expert guidance and advice to plan and prepare for their home projects," says Lewis Cowie, a representative of Corefront Home Renovations Calgary. He states that, as one of Calgary's leading companies, they focus on delivering value, quality and customer satisfaction. They expect that offering free consultations will motivate more people to take a look at what is possible for their home, especially if they already had any projects in mind for the future.

"We are taking the guesswork out of choosing the right home-renovation company by offering an unheard level of turn-key customer service before customers commit to a renovation project," says Cowie. He adds, "We aim to show our clients as many details of their home renovation project as possible before we even begin the project. Thorough planning helps save thousands of dollars, reduces emotional anxiety and instills peace of mind during a very challenging period. Our clients know exactly what they are getting and how much it will cost them before ever writing a check to us."

The company aims to make these consultations as thorough as possible, with quick turnaround time. According to their representatives, the free consultation process begins with an appointment call, after which a company representative meets up with and interviews the client about their desired project. The information gathered is then reviewed by the company's team, who assess the preliminary cost and the viability of the project while weighing any future issues that may come up over the course of the renovation.

After meeting with the team to review these details, the company invites their client to the Corefront Showroom where they are entitled to a design consultation with an accredited designer. During this meeting, they will receive a full walkthrough of their showroom, meet the team (including the key staff) and review some of the latest products and services. At the end of the visit, the company presents their client with a fully transparent estimate for their project. This estimate is presented in three different price and material levels, each separately detailed, giving the client full control of their budget.

Corefront Custom Renovation asserts that their free consultations come with no compromises whatsoever, though their team will be on hold and ready to follow through with the project as soon as the client makes a final decision. Typically, this means they can begin working on their client's renovation within a couple of days after the authorization of the renovations.

Cowie says, "Our team of dedicated professionals will ensure your project runs smoothly and meets all your expectations. They conclude your project meeting with you utilizing a complete customer satisfaction checklist and a five-year warranty package to ensure you?re completely satisfied with your renovation. All members of our team will be completely dedicated to bringing your desired project to life, and they will go out of their way to ensure that everything is done according to your specifications and vision."

Corefront Custom Renovations handles a wide variety of renovation projects, including Corefront Custom Kitchen renovations, Bathroom Renovations, Basement Renovations and Full Home Renovations. Custom home building is also part of their services, as the company states that they can handle and carry out any new building project at their client?s behest, starting with architectural design, interior design, material selections and project management.
