June 22, 2020

DECATUR, GA - June 22, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Decatur, Georgia based Arrowhead Clinic is reaching out to the community to share tips on how they may speed up their recovery following a car accident.

While car accidents are among the most common causes of injury, very few patients have learned the right strategies and tips they need to help improve healing after the crash. The physical trauma of a car accident can cause severe injuries that prevent normal daily activities, and these injuries can take weeks or even months to recover. Some injuries may linger for years, depending on the severity of the accident.

"If you feel bruised and hurt after a car accident, it is important that you listen to your body and allow yourself time to heal before returning to vigorous activities," says Dr. Roy Vogel of Arrowhead Clinic. He states, "By getting involved in rigorous activities soon after a car accident, you are only worsening your chances of fully recovering from your injuries. Resting and paying close attention to how your body reacts to your everyday activities is the best way to prevent harming your body further. If you are not careful, even the most minor injuries can take a turn for the worse and change your life."

Dr. Vogel also advises the community to visit a chiropractor after a car accident. This is the only way to determine the true extent of a person's injuries, as even minor collisions can have significant repercussions on a person's health. With a diagnosis in hand and the source of a patient's affliction pinpointed, a chiropractor can recommend therapy and other treatment techniques aimed to help the patient recover from their injuries. "Resting and laying low for a while may not be enough to cure your affliction," says Dr. Vogel. He adds, "You should also try a light activity, such as physical therapy if recommended by your doctor. Performing light exercise and mobility work will help improve your muscle and joint function after an injury. It can also allow your body to heal faster and more completely."

During such therapies, it is of the utmost importance that patients listen to the chiropractor's recommendations and advice. Dr. Vogel explains, "It is important that you look for a chiropractor and follow their recommendations thoroughly. You might not want to rest, and it could be challenging to follow up with doctor's appointments or go to physical therapy, but it will be worth it. After all, it is the most optimal way for a fast and substantial recovery even if, at first, it may come across as overwhelming." Learn more here: Car Accident Injury Chiropractor Near Me.
