McDonough, GA Car Accident Chiropractor Shares How Back Pain Can Be Fixed After An Accident

June 22, 2020

McDonough, Georgia - June 22, 2020 -
McDonough, Georgia based Arrowhead Clinic is reaching out to the community to share information on how they can take care of back pain after a car accident.

Car accidents can be a traumatic experience, causing significant stress on the body and mind of all involved. While the psychological stress often clears up a few days after the incident, the strain that a car accident puts on a person's body can linger for months and even years if they do not receive proper medical treatment. With back injuries being one of the most common types of injuries after a car accident, the Arrowhead Clinic experts are sharing their advice on how to recover from this typical affliction.

Dr. Robbyn Keating, a McDonough car accident chiropractor and representative of the Arrowhead Clinic, says, "Even low-speed collisions can cause injuries, including head injuries, whiplash, damage to muscles and ligaments, or soft tissue injuries. These injuries may not be evident at first. You could potentially go for days without experiencing more than minor discomfort in certain areas of your body, slowly experiencing a deterioration in your health that could affect your quality of life."

To address and treat a back injury caused by a car accident, seeking medical attention soon after the incident is of the utmost importance. Many back injuries that occur during a car accident need immediate attention to guarantee the patient's well-being. In some cases, surgery may be required.

"The extent of your injuries can only be determined by a qualified professional, and you certainly should not postpone your visit because your pain is not too severe at the moment," says Dr. Keating. ?You may not know what is causing your back pain or how severe it is, which could lead to experiencing the pain for months or years after your car accident. It's not easy to know if your back pain is a muscle strain, a soft tissue injury, or something more serious. Each of these carries its own risks, and the only way to know for sure is to be evaluated by a medical professional like a chiropractor."

Aside from the obvious back pain, the clinic states that there are other symptoms that indicate a severe back injury. These include numbness, tingling, weakness and loss of bladder or bowel control. If any of these symptoms are present, the patient should avoid exercise and rough movements until they receive medical attention. This is to avoid worsening their condition.

The Arrowhead Clinic specializes in treating car accident injuries, and they are known among local residents as one of the best car accident injury chiropractor care facilities in the area. The skill of the clinic's professional chiropractors and the individualized attention that they give each of their patients are perhaps the most significant reasons for their success. The clinic takes great pride in evaluating their patient's lifestyle and their injuries in order to develop the best treatment plan according to their circumstances. This gives them the best chance to fully recover from their injuries and continue living their lives without repercussions from their car accident.

Dr. Keating says, "We treat the source of your car accident injury and treat you to full recovery, rather than masking your pain with pills and other numbing medicine. This means that you do not have to worry about having your injury resurfacing a few years down the line, allowing you to live a normal, full life."

Aside from car accident injuries, Arrowhead Clinic's chiropractors can also treat various other injuries, including those caused by Slip and Falls, Work Injuries, Neck Pain, Back Pain, and so on. The clinic has 17 locations in Georgia, split across the Riverdale, Athens, Savannah, Brunswick, McDonough, and Hinesville areas. All of these clinics offer free consultations, allowing patients to get an upfront quote and preliminary diagnosis of their afflictions for future treatment.
