June 22, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Illinois based Video One Productions is pleased to offer professional video production, multimedia and video marketing services to local businesses in the greater Chicago area.

Erwin Meyers, Video One Productions' President and Producer, says, "We specialize in all types of business video production, including training videos, marketing videos, drone videography and other multimedia services. We are an award-winning Chicago video production company that has been helping businesses and individuals since 1987. We also provide professional video editing and motion graphics production as well as digitizing services, video conversion to DVDs, audio conversions to CDs and blu-ray services."

As noted on the company's website, Video One Productions offers three main types of services. The first of these is their video production service, which includes script-writing, HD video production and other enhancements that contribute to the production of a professionally created video. Their team can take on all types of projects from concept to completion, and their experienced videographers, lighting and audio professionals and other production crew members are always on standby, ready to shoot on a day's notice.

In addition, Video One Productions also offers professional multimedia services. They do video editing, DVD and CD disc duplication and replication as well as graphic design and so on. They can take a simple video to the next level in order to thoroughly capture the attention of its intended audience. Even if a third party has already filmed the requisite footage, their experienced editors are more than willing to give the video their signature treatment and produce high quality content.

Last but not least, Video One Productions offers video marketing services. They work closely with their clients to understand their goals and provide invaluable insights that help them reach their target audience. The company also works hard to share and improve each client's branding and give them the level of exposure that they want. They do this by providing video distribution, video SEO optimization, video performance analysis, social media coordination and more.

In a 5-Star review, Yelp reviewer Jackie L. says, "Video Productions Chicago has worked with my company for a couple of years now. We have a great relationship and have been able to help one another grow. We needed a local and reliable Chicago videographer who could shoot and edit videos for us at the drop-of-a-dime. Irwin is a skillful production ninja and he always has the right solution. We are a local marketing company, so you see how we need someone who will make us look good. The team at Video One Productions is the best of all the video editors we have worked with thus far. If you want it done right, they are your go-to."

In another 5-star review, Nicolletta P. says, "Took my 1986 VHS wedding tape to Irwin to have six DVD copies made from it. Originally, I took it somewhere close to my home in the suburbs and waited two months for the same six copies to be made from the first place. Got them back and they only recorded the church on all six. Lots of wasted time and money, but I wasn't going to give up just yet. I found Irwin and Video One Productions from Yelp. I messaged him my dilemma and asked for an estimate, and if he could possibly give it a go. He was so very prompt, professional, courteous and reasonable in pricing. I made the 1+ hour drive to him to drop the tape off and, in less than a week, drove back to him again to pick up all six DVDs. I was so excited to check them out at home (but somewhat nervous from the previous experience). Let me tell you, there were no tracking issues, they were perfectly copied and he got everything on to each DVD. I'm so grateful to have found Irwin to entrust my 33-year-old VHS to. He did a fantastic job in completing what I requested. Don't waste your time or money going anywhere else. Do yourself a favor and go to him."
