Edinburgh, UK ? Sleepyhammock.co.uk, seller of hand-woven hammocks, announced today that it will be supplying hammocks for the Hammock Garden of the upcoming Rest Festival. The festival, which will take place on 27-30 August in Salisbury, Wiltshire, is a fun-filled, family friendly weekend devoted to resting that includes music, comedy, craft workshops and other entertainment. The Hammock Garden will be a place where festival attendees can relax.

The aim of the Rest Festival is to encourage happiness through good health and lifestyle. It is a chance to explore natural therapies and healing through food, exercise, activities, art and music.

?Nothing says rest more than a hammock,? said Aaron Hill, owner of Sleepyhammock.co.uk. ?We?re very excited to be part of the Rest Festival. It?s a great fit for our company.? SleepyHammock.co.uk also announced that they are offering a 15% discount to friends of the Rest Festival, using the coupon code RESTFEST15.

The site provides extensive detail on the company?s hammock offerings, including free standing hammocks and hammock stands. The hammock lineup includes single and double hammocks, travel hammocks and baby hammocks. In addition to hammocks, they sell hanging chairs and numerous hammock accessories.

Free standing hammocks enable the user to transform any empty area into a place of relaxation, whether or not there are trees on which to hang a hammock. Each set includes a metal or wooden stand and coordinating hammock. Some sets are made from sustainably grown and harvested European spruce wood. Galvanized hardware ensures stable, sturdy assembly and enhances the durability of the stand. The hammock has the texture and feel of cotton but is built to withstand harsh climactic conditions. Both the hammock and the stand are water resistant. The EllTex material of the hammock won't fade in direct sun exposure.
