CA based Newman Windows San Diego is pleased to offer quality sliding patio doors to residents of San Diego and the surrounding areas. Their sliding glass patio doors also feature sleek designs for a very modern look, and each panel comes with a stylish and elegant border that beautifully frames the glass.

As noted on the company?s website, sliding patio doors work by having the door panels overlap each other. While one door panel is not in use and fixed in place, the other panel simply slides to the side, opening the door. Additionally, patio doors open flush with walls, making it an excellent door for apartments or other small living spaces.

Newman Windows San Diego asserts that sliding patio doors also offer a number of other benefits. Since they are mostly made out of glass, for instance, sliding patio doors can let in natural light, thereby reducing the need to use additional lighting. Next, sliding patio doors can provide good ventilation as well as keep families safe, given that they can also be locked. They are also highly energy-efficient, and residents can open these kinds of doors with ease.

Meanwhile, Newman Windows San Diego states that they offer quality made sliding patio doors that take a step forward in terms of modernity. They only sell durable products and are certified resellers of leading brands, such as Milgard and Jeld-Wen. ?Newman Windows San Diego offers the finest quality, wood, aluminum, fiberglass and more, and our InstallationMasters? Certified Installers are skilled and very capable when it comes to the installation of these products,? they say.

In addition, Newman Windows San Diego places a high priority on maintaining great customer service. They take care of all the minute details so their customer does not have to. At the same time, they go the extra mile to ensure that customers enjoy a worry-free process from start to finish. They welcome any questions as they value transparency and work to build trust with their community. They firmly believe that all customers deserve accurate information and full disclosure of all of the options available. They also make it their goal to give homeowners affordable options that nonetheless boast high standards, coupled with excellent service for maximum value. In fact, their dedication to excellent customer service is reflected in the positive reviews they have received from many of their previous customers.

In a 5-Star Yelp review, Jennifer S. says, ?We had Newman install windows several years ago and needed to have them checked out as we had some minor air coming in through the windows. We had to have two appointments, as one of the windows was a large arch window. On our first appointment, Ronnie was excellent and took care of all but our arch window, which had to be done separately due to a piece of trim needing to be ordered. Ronnie did an excellent job, cleaned up after and was professional and polite. He took great pride in his work, and took responsibility in his tasks. He spoke very highly of his workplace and coworkers, and that is really refreshing.?

The review adds, ?For the second appointment, Justin and Connor came out. These two were equally as awesome with the same type of professionalism, politeness, care, pride and thoroughness to the details. After completing the work, they also cleaned up thoroughly, and if you didn't know they had been out, you wouldn't know. Clearly these employees are valued in their roles with this team. Therefore, they exhibited that same value. I really appreciate that kind of teamwork. Thank you, Newman, for your continued service and a great team.?

Yet another glowing review says, ?I would like you to know how very pleased I am with my new sliding doors. Not only are the doors wonderful but Greg couldn?t have been more helpful. He made sure I chose the correct doors for my needs and made sure work was done to perfection.?
