Carole Galassi, the Creative Director at The Funeral Program Site, says, ?A program for funerals is a treasured printed memorial for a loved one and can be referred to as an obituary program, a funeral pamphlet, or a funeral bulletin. These programs are printed keepsakes that highlight a loved one's memory by including information and photos within its contents.?

?It is an important and tangible keepsake that is handed out as a token of the final celebration of life and are offered in many different layouts,? she continues. ?We specialize in DIY funeral program templates, printed memorials and matching personalized in loving memory keepsake products. These personalized memorial church fans that we have recently launched are just right for the warm summer months.?

The church fans that they have recently launched are hand held and usually made from heavy card stock with a wooden stick adhered to the bottom part of the fan. The fans are available in different shapes and sizes. The fans can be distributed during a memorial or funeral service and are very popular during summer because the people attending the service can use the fans to cool themselves or use it as a personalized shade at a grave site service. They are available as memorial photo face fans, curved memorial church fans, heart memorial church fans, and plastic church hand fans.

The Funeral Program Site also offers funeral poems because reading them is one of the beautiful ways of expressing sadness, grief, and love for the person who has passed away. Listening to someone read a carefully selected funeral poem can also offer some comfort to the people who are deeply saddened by the passing away of a loved one. And for some, the poem could serve as a tribute and as a way to show respect to the person they have just lost. For some, poems offer a way to personalize a funeral service.

The funeral poem is better known as an elegy in English literature. It is also known as a poem of mourning and the usual themes include a reflection of sorrow, a reflection of the nature of death, a reflection of support for those who grieve, or an expression of the hope offered by the afterlife. But not all who are grieving can be courageous enough to read funeral poem because of the possibility of breaking down in the middle of reading it. Some may just want to add a printed poem on the funeral program that is handed out to visitors.
