September 03, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

LB Plumbing and Heating, a plumber in Harrow, London, United Kingdom has launched a new blog that they intend to use to keep their customers up to date with developments in the world of plumbing and heating. The blog will also include information on news and promotions that are relevant to the general public. Currently, they want to make sure that their customers are aware of all the different ways they can use to contact the plumbing company and to stay up to date with developments.

"Anyone who is wondering whether our company is the right one for them or for their specific project can now find all the information they need through our website and blog," says Ray Le Blanc from LB Plumbing and Heating. "It is also an opportunity for people to get to know me, my experience and my ways of working."

The company focuses most significantly on North London boiler installation, servicing and repairs. Too often, they find that customers feel that something shouldn't be fixed if it isn't broken. However, Le Blanc feels that this is the wrong attitude. Leaving a boiler unserviced until it breaks down can lead to very expensive repair bills. Servicing it more frequently can help avoid this problem, which will ultimately result in saving money in the long run.

"You may believe that by putting a boiler replacement on hold, you save money in the process, but that's not always the case," adds Ray Le Blanc. "I can help people to make sure their current boiler is still working, or I can point them towards the various government incentives that exist to help people upgrade their boiler to a newer, more energy efficient one."

When it comes to boiler installation in London, LB Plumbing and Heating is one of the most trusted providers. Le Blanc has built a solid reputation of being one of the best in the industry. He offers a friendly and reliable service and is always there to provide his customers with all the information they need in terms of their boilers, appliances and other plumbing needs.
