Dating for people with herpes can be a daunting task especially due to the judgement and rejections. Some herpes singles prefer to stay away from dating because of the fear of a disappointing rejection and the stigma that comes with disclosing their STD status. Fortunately for herpes singles, it is possible to get back to the dating world courtesy of a safe herpes dating website, meet positives. Recently, the site has announced that they have thousands of herpes singles as members from different states and cities.

According to the site, "Dating is difficult for most people and being positive with HSV (Herpes Simplex Virus) does not make it any easier. When you are positive, it is very important to disclose your status to the person who you're dating. Having 'the talk' is never easy or comfortable because the risk of rejection is always there and many people will not want to date an infected person. Meet Positives created a platform for herpes singles to meet and date without the fear of rejection."

"If you are living with herpes and would like to be around people who care and provide crucial information about your status, join Meet Positives. Joining this site is easy. All you need to do is create an account and add some information about yourself to share with other herpes singles. There are thousands of herpes singles looking for someone just like you. Forget about rejections, join Meet Positives today and find someone special."

"A lot of people are surprised by how common herpes is. Over 40 million of people live with this draining yet common condition, but only a few know they are infected. In the United States of America, 1 in 5 people live with the disease. Genital herpes has become the most prevalent sexually transmitted infection in recent years."

"If you are living with herpes, you are not alone. There are many others like you and even though there's no cure for herpes, you can still live a happy and healthy life. For an infected person, it's very important to find the right crowd. The community here is made of similar people who understand your situation and will not be quick to judge. Meet Positives was built for positives and has thousands of herpes singles who have made this website their sharing platform. Members share their stories and information on how to live a better life with the infection. By joining you will enjoy a number of benefits."
