New Company Now Offering Expert Pest Control Services in Leeds, West Yorkshire

August 19, 2020

August 19, 2020 -
Buggenix, a newly opened West Yorkshire pest control service, is pleased to announce that they are now providing remedies to those that are having pest issues in Leeds and the surrounding areas. This new company provides pest management measures that are meant to stop the harmful effect that bugs, insects, rodents, and birds can have on a property. They will be specializing in three main areas of pest prevention and control which are commercial, domestic, and agricultural pest management.

Finley McCarthy, the owner of Buggenix, says, ?Gone are the days when pest management companies could take care of people?s pest management needs with just a backpack sprayer and some tainted food that kills rodents. Today, pest management services like ours are highly regulated and have a strict set of rules they must follow while performing their work. My team and I know those rules by heart and have tailored our pest management services to work within those guidelines as effectively as possible. We may be new but we are very good at what we do and the way our company is already growing speaks volumes about the impactful way that we go about doing our pest prevention and control measures.?

McCarthy wanted to add that those at the company have over 15 years of combined experience in the pest control business. The list of qualifications and certifications that he and the others at the company possess is also lengthy and quite impressive. That includes an RSPH Level 3 Diploma in Pest Management, an RSPH/BPCA Level 2 Certificate in Pest Control, RSPH Level 2 Certificate in Pest Control, RSH Certificate in Pest Control, BPCA Diploma in Pest Control Part 1, and successfully completing the highly regarded Lantra course in ?Responsible and Effective Control of Commensal Rodents?. The company owner says that he also ensures their customers that the learning will not stop there as they strive to be the best and most knowledgeable pest control service in the Leeds area.

The owner says that when they try to resolve bug and insect issues at a customer?s property, they have a special approach that they use that is the most impactful way to get this done. McCarthy says after his team arrives and introduces themselves, they next will do a thorough inspection of that property which seeks to identify the types of pests that are causing problems and their entry points into a home or business. He added that his company?s inspections are so thorough that they will even take moisture checks around a home or building to identify areas that are likely to attract and become home for bugs and insects. Once finished, the team members at Buggenix will write up a report of what they have found and then discuss that report with the property owner. He stated that this will be followed up by making suggestions to that property owner as to the best way to eliminate the bugs and insects that are causing them problems.

The company is already quickly becoming well-known for its rat control services in the Leeds area too. McCarthy says, ?One of our specialties is dealing with rats that have invaded homes and business. Even a few of these pesky creatures can cause much damage around a property and spread disease and parasites through their droppings. They also produce offspring extremely quickly. That?s why it?s so important to get proper rat control measures done as soon as you see them or find evidence that they are around your property.? The company owner added that they provide end-to-end rat pest control services. This includes their team of pest control professionals doing such things as locating rat entry points of entry into a property, identifying rat?s nests, placing traps in the area where they will get the best results, and take steps to prevent rats from getting back into a property once they have been removed by those at Buggenix. McCarthy says they will also take that one step further and even guarantee a home to be rat-free when they are finished.

In addition to Leeds, McCarthy says hey can also be found out working every day in such nearby communities as Headingley, Meanwood, Morley, Oakwood, Roundhay, and Leeds City Centre too. He says that if someone nearby is having a problem with bugs or rodents, they will be there for them to help solve those types of pest control problems.
