August 12, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Crestview, Fla. - Lewis and Jurnovoy is among the top bankruptcy lawyers in Crestview, FL highlighting bankruptcy across the nation due to the coronavirus (COVID-19). As the pandemic continues to sweep the nation the bankruptcy industry is anticipating a tidal wave of landlords with nowhere else to turn.

This rush is expected by experts in the field due to two main reasons. First, retailers around the nation are being forced to file for bankruptcy as shopping decreases and opening is limited if permitted at all. As retailers file for bankruptcy their case also allows the company to easily exit a multi-year lease. Causing landlords of shopping malls and other complexes to lose money unexpectedly with no way to make up for the loss.

Second, the government has issued a foreclosure band on properties across the nation and while this may be positive for homeowners and renters it is not positive for landlords. As the payments continue to build up with no sign of relief coming soon landlords are beginning to have a hard time staying afloat. Both scenarios have the bankruptcy industry close watching landlords as the tsunami may start moving in soon. Lewis and Jurnovoy is dedicated to keeping the local community updated on bankruptcy news as the pandemic continues to change the nation.
