September 04, 2015 -
Wonderful Wags, a pet care company in Layton, UT, has announced significant changes to their website and their bark collar that is safe for dogs. Anticipating the needs of pet lovers during the fall season, the website has a brand new look and provides information on autumn pet safety. Furthermore, the company's bestselling bark collar has been improved to provide even better results while always keeping pets safe.

"We are so excited about all these new developments," says Renee Coulter from Wonderful Wags. "Everything has been completed just in time. Now that people will start spending more time indoors with their pets again, it is even more important that they are able to stop their dogs from constantly barking - while doing so in a safe manner. That is what our bark collar offers."

The Wonderful Wags pet safe dog bark collar is designed to correct a dog in a humane manner. The collar has been designed to fit dogs of all sizes, as it is fully adjustable. If offers seven different levels of correction, none of which are painful to the dog. Rather, the pet is merely startled by the shock, which has been demonstrated to help in its training. The dog will come to associate the painless shocks with barking, which causes it to avoid barking in the future.

"Simply put, our collar creates a Pavlov reaction in which the dog will avoid the behavior that makes them uncomfortable," adds Renee. "It is often difficult to stop a dog from exhibiting certain behaviors, particularly barking, which is in its nature. However, bark collars have been proven to be effective and they are completely humane as well. We have also made sure that our new website includes lots of hints and tips on how to use the collar."

Wonderful Wags has also launched a Facebook page. This offers the company an opportunity not just to present new information about their products but also about dog safety hints and tips. Furthermore, it allows customers to ask questions and to discuss their own success - or failure - stories when it comes to properly training their dogs. The expected result would be a community of dog lovers who are exchanging information on their experiences.
