Tree Service Fresno Launches New Arborist Services for Fresno, CA Communities

August 14, 2020

August 14, 2020 -
Tree Service Fresno, a family owned tree service company in Fresno, CA announces it has added Arborist service to its list of available services. To help support the new service being offered to the Fresno community the company has also hired three new employees to their staff.

More information can be found on the company website here: http://www.treeservicefresno.net/.

Tree Service Fresno is a family-owned tree service with over 25-years of experience caring for the natural landscape of communities in Fresno and Madera counties. By adding the new Arborist service, customers can now contact Tree Service Fresno for tree diagnostic services.

Company representative, Jennifer Radler stated, ?Our goal is to provide exceptional tree service to all residential and commercial clients looking to maintain or improve the natural surroundings of their homes and businesses.?

According to the company website, if a customer has a tree that just does not seem to get growing right, they can just contact the company and a certified Arborist will respond and conduct an analysis. The Arborist will look to identify the stress factors that may be affecting the tree.

There are two kinds of stresses a tree can experience. They are Abiotic stresses and Biotic stresses.

Abiotic stresses are caused by the environment and include things like nutrients, temperature, fertilizer, the air, and even the water. Biotic stresses are stresses that come from external factors and include bacteria, animals, bugs, fungi, and anything else external.

Another stress for trees that many people cannot recognize is when the tree is over-watered or under-watered. The amount of water a tree receives is the leading cause of why a perfectly healthy tree will die and it can be difficult to know how much is too much or too little.

When a tree is stressed it will contract diseases easily, have difficulty growing, and will be at a much greater risk of dying. When those stresses are removed, the tree?s natural defenses will come back and protect it from diseases once again. This is why it is valuable to have an Arborist come in and provide a complete diagnosis of the issue. Tree Service Fresno?s Arborist will be able to figure out all of the stresses that are affecting the tree and then provide solutions to remove those stresses and bring the tree back to its best health.

Tree Service Fresno Arborist are ISA certified. They have been in the tree service industry for at least three years and also had to pass an extensive comprehensive exam with topics ranging from tree biology to safe work practices to the best arbor care techniques. The company guarantees that all of their projects are managed by a Certified Arborist for their customer?s protection and peace of mind.

According to the company?s website, Tree Service Fresno always use the safest tree removal methods for the safety of their customer?s property, to ensure efficiency, and to promote safety. The company strives to save every tree they can, but admits, sometimes tree removal is necessary.
