August 24, 2020 -
Furnace Repair Calgary is pleased to announce that they are now serving the furnace installation, maintenance, and repair needs of those in Okotoks. With the strong demand for their services in other parts of Calgary, the company felt the time was right to extend their coverage area into Okotoks and other parts of South Calgary. Their customers in the Okotoks area can expect the same great service that has made them one of Calgary, Alberta?s most highly rated furnace service providers.

The company CEO, Matthew Hannigan, says, ?We put much effort into the furnace repair work that we are asked to do by our customers. That includes showing up on time, doing quality furnace work, charging fair prices, and treating our customers the right way while performing furnace-related tasks for them. As word has spread about the comprehensive way that we go about doing furnace services, we often get calls from people that are not in our current service area. When that demand gets strong enough in one area such as Okotoks, we wouldn?t be a prudent business if we did not at least consider expanding our services into that area. So, as the phone inquiries from Okotoks, Alberta started to add up, we decided it was the right time to begin taking care of the furnace needs of those in that area. It has proven to be a great decision so far as we have already started building some strong relationships with our customers in that area.?

According to Hannigan, they will be offering all of their normal furnace installation, maintenance, and repair services to those Okotoks. He says that includes offering free inspections and estimates for complete new or replacement furnace systems. Furnace Repair Calgary can design and build furnaces of all sizes to meet any homeowner?s heating needs. The company CEO added, ?I also have the privilege of having some of the most skilled furnace techs in the Calgary area working for me?. He commends their ability to diagnose and troubleshoot even the most complicated furnace problems. Hannigan also wanted to emphasize that they are a completely mobile furnace service provider, therefore, customers have to do nothing more than make a phone call to get their furnace needs expertly met.

Hannigan went on to say that when those at the company state ?they are always there for their customers?, Furnace Repair Calgary is a company that truly means it. That?s why they offer 24-hour emergency furnace services. He mentioned that their customers are welcome to call for emergency furnace help even late at night, on weekends, and major holidays. ?We realize fully that having a heated home on a cold day or night is not an option it?s a necessity for any family?s comfort and safety?, Hannigan added, ?That?s why we always have a furnace tech on standby that?s ready to be dispatched as quickly as possible to handle our customers' furnace emergencies.? The company CEO stated that they also keep their service vehicles fully-stocked with quality replacement parts and that enables them to take care of most emergency furnace problems in a single trip to a customer?s home.

He would also like their new customers in Okotoks to know that their commitment to them goes well beyond just fulfilling their furnace installation and repair needs. Hannigan stated that they like to post helpful blog articles on their website too. These blogs are full of such useful information as tips on how someone can run their furnace more efficiently and some simple DIY maintenance steps that their customers can perform. The company CEO says that they try to post informational blog articles on at least a monthly basis. These blogs can be viewed on the company website at https://furnace-repair-calgary.ca/.
