Advanced Packaging Solutions & Products, Inc. a packaging materials and services provider, has packaging manufacturer and wholesaler partnerships throughout all of North America. It has launched a new website to better serve its clients which can be checked out at the link here: <https://advancedpckg.com>

The company's network of wholesale partners allows it to provide its customers with over 20,000 stock items ready to ship from Chicago, IL, Dallas, TX, Hazelton, PA, Atlanta, GA, and more at all times. In addition to these warehouses, they also have their own strategically located distribution centers in the Southeast where they stock common and customer-specific packaging items. The company accommodates organizations that require custom engineered packaging or stock packaging.

Its products include stock packaging, custom packaging, packaging equipment, returnable packaging, material handling, wood packaging, and VpCI packaging. A few of their popular products include crates/pallets/wood products, plastic bags, returnable packaging, boxes, custom size bags / printed bags, stretch film, die-cut, molded, or waterjet foam, cushioning materials, honeycomb packaging, labels, metal racks & carts, strapping, die-cut and/or printed boxes, shipping room supplies, molded pulp, tape, and packaging shock and vibration testing. The company also offers services such as vendor managed inventory (VMI), kitting & fulfillment, metal rack fab/repair, engineering and design, consultative engineering, and eCommerce packaging. More of the company's products and services can be found on their packaging products and packaging services pages on their website.

Describing its stock packaging inventory, the company says it has thousands of items in stock ready to ship. It says it is ready to supply its customers with boxes, tapes, stretch films, and many other products. When it comes to custom packaging, the company says that it can custom design and supply any packaging material for its customers' specific needs.

The company's packaging equipment lineup includes entry-level equipment all the way to a fully customized packaging line. The company's returnable packaging includes returnable racks and bulk bins that are used by companies to move products from their vendors to the assembly lines. This can greatly reduce the amount of waste because of the ability to reuse the racks and bins for many years. Advanced Packaging Solutions & Products claims it can help customers from the initial designs to the production racks.

The company says that material handling is becoming ever more crucial to the order fulfillment process. It says it can help its customers' needs for a few simple stock carts to help with picking efficiency all the way up to leveraging its engineering and design team to create a custom cart around their order picking process.

The company is also a full-service wood packaging provider. It says that having a packaging supplier that realizes the pallet is also part of packaging prevents the customer from having two suppliers when one will do. The company says it can fulfill any need both small and large from pallets and crates to blocking and bracing lumber. The company has a woodshop located in Greenville, SC, and wood packaging partners all over the nation enabling them to support most jobs.

For customers that need to protect their metal products, they can do so with Vapor Phase Corrosion Inhibitors (VpCI). The company says VpCI is scientifically engineered to prevent the metal products from rust or corrosion during shipping or storing, saving customers millions of dollars in the process.

The company was started by 2 packaging engineers from Clemson University. In January 2012, they opened their first warehouse in Charleston, SC. In June 2016, they opened the Piedmont, SC location. In March 2017, Inc 500 declared them the #1 fastest growing company in South Carolina, and #242 in the nation. In August 2017, the company's new Charleston, SC warehouse at the Charleston Trade Center was opened.

The company's corporate office can be reached by phone at 866-364-7026 or by FAX at 877-766-3350. Interested customers can contact them by email at info@advancedpckg.com. There is a contact form on the website for those who prefer to use that. There is also chat functionality on the website to start a direct conversation with a representative from the company. The company can also be contacted directly on its LinkedIn profile.
