

San Diego Consumers Facing Difficult Times

August 25, 2020

August 25, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

California based Big Car Title Loans San Diego is reaching out to the community to express their willingness to offer guidance during these difficult times. More information on their efforts is available on the company's website, which can be accessed here: <https://bigcartitleloanssandiego.com>.

The current situation with the COVID-19 pandemic has put San Diego residents under a lot of stress. Most have been forced to adapt and rise to these unforeseen circumstances, which have changed even the most simple parts of their day. This, along with the financial strain that they have been forced to endure over the past few months have been enough to push lower income families to the verge of financial collapse.

"People are facing unprecedented times," states a representative for Big Car Title Loans San Diego, referring to the situation the company has observed local families go through. They continue, "COVID-19 has really hurt people, and I don't think we have even seen the tip of the iceberg."

The local company states that most families in San Diego have been directly affected by reductions in their working hours, layoffs and wage reductions, and these are only the immediate consequences of the pandemic. While the long-term effects are still uncertain, it has already been enough to shake the community in more than one way. For instance, internationally-shipped goods remain one of the most affected areas, keeping people from receiving day-to-day objects like toys, clothes and just about anything that is made in China and sold by companies like Amazon.

Previously, the same items available in the US could be acquired online at a lower price, including purchase and shipping costs. The unreliability and uncertainty of international shipments is pushing people away from online purchases, forcing them to spend more money than they otherwise would for the same product. Interruptions in the supply chain could also impact major American tech companies, from Apple to Google to San Diego based Qualcomm.

This only furthers the strain put on the pocket of US residents, who already have a lot to deal with thanks to the reduction of their paychecks and layoffs brought forth by the COVID-19 pandemic. These pressing and dire circumstances have led people to seek financial aid to help deal with the additional expenses that have been brought forth by the current situation. As a result, Big Car Title Loans San Diego seeks to make a difference on this front, extending a helping hand to residents struggling with their finances.

While other financial aid companies have a long list of complicated requirements, Big Car Title Loans San Diego focuses on offering help to their clients in an easy, convenient and reliable manner. More information is available here: <https://bigcartitleloanssandiego.com/faq/>.

Big Car Title Loans San Diego explains that applicants of their cash advance program use their vehicle's title as collateral to secure the financial aid. This helps reduce the requirements, making the program accessible to more people who would be unable to apply for a cash advance from any other provider. This makes it so that credit is not as large an issue as it would be with other types of financial advances, allowing people with a poor credit score to secure financial aid.

Clients of the company can often get the money they need within 24 hours of their initial application, and more often than not within a few hours. These efforts and promises of reliability are what make Big Car Title Loans San Diego one of the most determined financial aid providers in the area.
