August 17, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Health Tech Supply announced today the introduction of the company's new brand image coinciding with the launch of its new company website at <https://HealthTechSupply.com/>.

Health Tech Supply, a supplier of health and medical supplies online, launching its first website with a focus on innovation and integrity.

Founded in 2020, Health Tech Supply delayed the initial opening of their website due to supply chain issues. With the Novel Coronavirus arriving in 2020, Health Tech Supply delayed the initial launch of their website - wanting to make sure that essential workers on the front line were not competing to get their PPE (Personal Protective Equipment) at a time that HTS would be creating demand in the supply chain.

HealthTechSupply.com initially was built to accommodate small orders of PPE (Personal Protective Equipment), including surgical face masks, latex-free gloves, thermometers and even KN95 masks. The founders of Health Tech Supply delayed the website launch however, as they did not want their customer orders competing with US state, city, hospital and other institutional orders of any vital health equipment.

The HTS product line has been diversified to include CPAP respirators, massage chairs, EKG kits, Pulse Oximeters, blood pressure kits, scrubs and more. The focus on health and medical equipment across a variety of conditions supports more diverse needs across an aging population.

With the rapid adoption of the internet as essential business infrastructure, Health Tech Supply constructed and managed medical equipment manufacturer supply networks to build out their supply chain. During the explosive growth of demand for health and safety supplies, Health Tech Supply diversified their product line to include other types of health and medical equipment.
