truMedic®, the premier health and wellness device brand based out of New York, has launched a brand new company website. The company's product line includes advanced shiatsu massage chairs, personal massagers, TENS (transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation) units, blood pressure monitors, and other health and wellness products. The company's products have been featured on national TV media such as ABC, PBS, and in print media like Business Insider, "O", The Oprah Magazine, People Magazine, The New York Post, NewsWeek, and many others.

The new truMedic® website has an online store that makes the company's entire range of wellness and pain relief products and accessories available for purchase. Interested shoppers can also sign up for their newsletter which promises the latest product info, special offers, and stress and pain relief tips. Existing customers can access a support center that contains product-specific manuals, best practices, and FAQs. There is even a request submission form to get personalized help from a customer support representative. The website also has a blog that contains articles on topics such as stress management, pain relief, and pain management.

The company spokesperson, Stephen, said about the recent change, "We upgraded our website to Shopify, the most reliable and robust leading eCommerce platform, to better serve our customers. It is redesigned to improve navigation paths to make it easier for visitors to find what they are looking for, increase load time, and improved responsive design."

The company focuses on the holistic benefits of massage therapy, electrotherapy, and similar treatments and aims to make its massage therapy and TENS unit (electrotherapy) technology available at affordable prices, directly to consumers. Its line of massage chairs and personal massagers include the InstaShiatsu®+ massage chair line and truShiatsu® neck, and back massagers, foot massagers, seat massagers, pillow massagers, handheld massagers, impact therapy devices, and more. The company also makes electronic TENS pulse massagers, wireless TENS units, TENS gel, micro TENS units, and bundles for complete back health. Blood pressure monitors include both wrist and upper arm monitors with added voice-control technology. Along with these products, truMedic® also manufactures the accompanying accessories like adapters, replacement wires, compression sleeves, remote controls, and more.

Of the products highlighted on the website, the truMedic® MagicHands® trueShiatsu® Neck and Back Massager with Heat is the company's most advanced, high-performance massage unit so far. The product uses a patent-pending mechanism that was engineered by the company to recreate the touch and feel of a professional masseuse. The unit achieves this through the use of four massage nodes that each act as their own "thumb" to deliver effective shiatsu massage therapy.

The heat functionality built into the rotating massage nodes acts to alleviate deep soreness in the target areas. The massage nodes are also secured with a breathable mesh covering. Other impressive features built into the device like reversible nodes, adjustable arm straps, and adjustable wrist supports extend the functionality and increase efficiency. MagicHands® comes in three different colors - orange, green, and blue and includes free shipping, a 30-day money-back guarantee, and a 1-year limited warranty.

The product has hundreds of 5-star reviews from satisfied customers across numerous channels. One of the reviewers, Valerie C., says, "I have fibromyalgia and my muscles are always sore and stiff. I use this neck and back massager at night before I go to bed and it really helps my muscles loosen up. I can now fall asleep faster with less pain. I highly recommend it." Another reviewer, Mary C., says, "Me and my husband love it. works great on my sore shoulders after a long day at work would recommend to anyone." The massager was selected to be on "Oprah's Favorite Things" list in 2019 - the second time in two consecutive years that a truMedic® product has made this prestigious list.
